NATO Endorses Cooperation With Red Bloc

PARIS (AP) — Ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization endorsed today an Italian proposal looking to eventual technological and scientific cooperation with nations of the Soviet bloc.

Italian Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani submitted a plan for greater cooperation in this field to narrow the "brain gap" between advanced countries and less-fortunate ones, beginning with such cooperation in Europe.

Later, he said, technological and scientific assistance should be promoted between the United States and European nations. He then added, according to conference sources: "We can then also attack the problem of the ways and timing which would permit the association in this work of other nations which have attained this developed stage under a system of state economy."

He said this would mean pushing the idea of East-West reconciliation into the technological field.

Fanfani's proposal thus carried into the scientific domain the theme of greater East-West cooperation as spelled out in another NATO report, which recommended increased bilateral contacts with the East.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk expressed America's appreciation to other NATO members for aid they have sent and are planning to send to South Vietnam. Rusk's statement was made public today by American sources.

Rusk said several countries had asked what is most needed in South Vietnam, and the United States has given them a list of Saigon's priority needs. This list includes teachers, medical supplies, agricultural specialists, and various other sorts of nonmilitary help.

As of now, according to American sources, seven other NATO countries are furnishing aid to South Vietnam, including even France, which is supplying teachers who apparently have been on the scene for years.

Aid also comes from West Germany, Britain, Holland, Italy, Greece and Canada. Other allies have also indicated they may begin sending aid but officials could not identify them.

NATO ministers received a report on East-West contacts by NATO states on a bilateral basis since last June. The list, ranging from De Gaulle's reception of Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin last week to a visit by

Soviet's New Budget Eyed With Concern

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Soviet Union's guns-better budget portends new political strains for Moscow.

The budget, reflecting for 1967 the highest rate of military spending in a decade, indicates a substantial hardening of attitude toward the United States and resumption of some of the more chilling tactics of the Cold War.

There are several causes.

First — According to information coming from Moscow, the Kremlin is uneasy about the U.S. government, as if fearing its past performances in Vietnam and the Dominican Republic means it is ready and willing to intervene anywhere in the world in a revolutionary situation.

Second — Official Soviets, the same sources say, have concluded that underdeveloped areas of Asia, Africa and Latin America — independent all too soon — are so unstable that there may be a succession of small wars. The U.S.S.R. itself may be involved in one, just as the Americans now are involved in Vietnam.

Third — The United States is far ahead in experience with guerrilla war, as well as in experimenting with new weapons, new tactics and strategy, new deployment and logistics techniques and the like learned from such developments as Vietnam and the Dominican Republic. The Soviet military has had none of this.

The Soviet Union's military men are believed demanding more preparation for what

Santa's Yuletide 'Cheer' A Bit Much for Store Owners

NEW YORK (AP) — Is Santa Claus headed for hard times? Santa parachuted into a 300-ft. shopping center after Thanksgiving and was arrested for illegal parachute jumping.

When he wanted to fly to Clifton, N.J., in a helicopter instead of a sleigh, the city fathers said he couldn't — only foreign powers and public officials are perhaps no airport.

And now Santa has been banished from some stores.

They say he blocks the flow of shoppers and may take a nip or two of Christmas cheer while on the job. For a good Santa is hard to find.

But in most big stores boys and girls still can perch on Santa's knees and whisper their wishes.

"We found there were too many problems involved," said Herbert Teitelbaum, manager of Zayre Inc., a discount store

Innocent Plea Entered in Spike Slaying

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 23-year-old itinerant accused of the slaying Oct. 17 of Chicago church civil rights leader Robert W. Spike pleaded innocent today to a first-degree murder charge.

William R. Minor appeared before Common Pleas Judge Leonard Stern to enter pleas of innocent to charges of breaking and entering as well as committing first degree murder while perpetrating a burglary.

Spike was found beaten to death here in a religious center he had helped to dedicate.

Minor's court-appointed attorneys, George Tyack and Paul Scott, presented the court a "notice of alibi," in which they contended Minor was in the city of Washington, D.C., at the time of the killing.

They also made a motion asking the court to suppress evidence on grounds that statements obtained were in violation of the defendant's constitutional rights.

A hearing on the alibi notice will be held at a later date.

Minor stood before Judge Stern to make his plea, saying only "not guilty" when queried by the court.

After the arraignment he was returned to the county jail.

The Franklin County Grand Jury indicted Minor on the two counts last Monday. It also found that the man was "not presently sane" and asked that a sanity hearing be held in common pleas court.

After today's developments, it appeared that a hearing on the defense counsel's alibi notice would come before any sanity hearing.

Minor is a former Kentuckian who has been committed several times to the state mental hospital here. Police arrested him after a church burglary and officers claimed he confessed to the Spike slaying as well as burglary of the new religious center.

Hoffa Union Members End Their Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Teamsters began returning to work today after a 24-hour walkout protesting a U.S. Supreme Court decision upholding the 1964 jury tampering conviction of their union's international president, James R. Hoffa. Hoffa had urged his men to go back to work.

A sampling of Detroit firms showed that 75 to 100 per cent of over-the-road, long-distance drivers had reported to work beginning with the midnight shift.

Hoffa flew into Detroit Thursday and ordered the Teamsters back to work. However, the 24-hour strike had been called at midnight Wednesday and was well under way.

It was early afternoon before Hoffa told some 1,200 cheering Teamsters here to go back to work. Few, if any, returned before midnight.

"Don't take the law in your own hands or you are going to hurt me," Hoffa told the workers at a hastily summoned meeting.

The strike developed Wednesday night at a meeting of Hoffa's home local, No. 299.

The action quickly spread to other locals, with a total membership of approximately 70,000.

No Injuries As Jet Falls Amid Houses

LOS ALAMITOS, Calif. (AP) — One woman summed up the feeling of the residents who saw a Navy attack jet explode in front of their houses, leaving a trail of wreckage but not one injury.

"It was providence,"

In heavy fog Thursday, just after beginning a routine instrument training flight from the Naval air station here, the single-seat A4B Skyhawk clipped a row of trees, then plunged into the quiet neighborhood. Investigators are still seeking why.

"I lost control," said the pilot, Marine Reserve Capt. J.H. Moffett, 31, an airline pilot from Newhall, Calif., who had never been in serious trouble in 6½ years of flying. "I had no choice but to get out."

He did — 75 feet above the ground — and parachuted to earth uninjured.

His jet tumbled end over end, then hit Yellowtail Drive in adjacent Rossmore, a densely populated residential area in Orange County 30 miles south of Los Angeles.

Sex Slayer Sent to Lima

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — A 60-day observation period at Lima State Hospital has been ordered for Billy James Eldridge, 19, convicted Thursday in the sex slaying of a minister's son.

Eldridge pleaded guilty of second-degree murder and sodomy, with the murder charge reduced from first-degree, in the June 24 killing of 14-year-old Charles Miller.

The conviction carries a life imprisonment sentence if Eldridge is found sane.

Both Eldridge and Miller, son of the Rev. Gerald Miller, lived in nearby South Webster.

Dem Governor Confab Views Election Loss

Sees Result As Popular Reaction To Great Society

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Democratic governors say their party lost the November elections because of a surge against President Johnson's Great Society.

But Democratic state executives who caucused Thursday night at this interim National Governors' Conference vigorously rejected Republican suggestions that Johnson might not run again in 1968 because of his low rating in polls and because the GOP picked up 47 House members, three senators and eight governors in last month's balloting.

When questioned at length by reporters after the closed Democratic caucus, Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa said that Johnson will face "a very tough race" if the Republicans present a "respectable opponent" against him two years from now.

Hughes conceded under questioning that there was discussion in the closed session of Johnson's personality traits.

There was the feeling, he reported, that the President's Great Society program was moving too fast.

In this respect, Hughes said, most of the Democratic governors felt they had no real communication with the national administration.

He said they were determined to work out at a subsequent caucus during the conference a way so that Great Society programs could be operated at a "popular level."

In addition, he said, the governors want a broader role in shaping national administration policies.

Hughes, who won re-election by 100,000 votes despite the Democrats' loss of four congressional seats in his state, was asked if he would rather see somebody other than Johnson nominated for president in 1968.

He replied: "Absolutely not."

The Iowa governor, who headed the caucus of about 18, said there was no doubt in the minds of any of them that Johnson will offer himself as a candidate again in 1968.

Some Republican governors were suggesting that Johnson would be so discouraged he won't try for a second term.

Republican governors, who rode their own merry-go-round at Colorado Springs, Colo., last week, were wary about getting into the political donnybrook in which the Democrats were indulging.

GOP Gov. George Romney of Michigan, who might become Johnson's Republican opponent in 1968, announced on his arrival that he would not talk any politics while he was here.

Ohio's GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes told newsmen that he probably will be a favorite son, bearing his state's hefty nominating delegation to the convention uncommitted.

"You can't sit here and pre-judge something that's going to happen 18 months from now," he said. "Events have a way of taking care of themselves."

We Deny Raids Inside Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States offered the world a flat denial today of North Vietnamese charges that American warplanes bombed inside the city limits of Hanoi Tuesday and Wednesday.

Statements from Saigon and Washington, designed to refute widely spread Communist reports that the United States has begun a new escalation of the Vietnamese war, claimed that:

— A review of reconnaissance photos showed that all bombs fell on designated targets: a truck depot two miles south of the city limits and a railroad yard five miles northeast of the city. The photos showed, the U.S. Military Command in Saigon said today, that no bombs fell within the city as shown on a 1965 North Vietnamese map.

— A U.S. Military Command review of pilots' reports on the strikes showed that American warplanes struck only the scheduled target areas. "I didn't see a single bomb off target," said Lt. (j.g.) John Barrow, 25, of Philadelphia, one of the pilots who raided the truck park.

— Reports from foreigners living in Hanoi indicated there almost certainly were no deliberate attacks inside the city by American planes, although some homes were badly damaged. The reports, made available by U.S. officials here, also showed that the foreigners believed the damage was caused by North Vietnamese anti-aircraft missiles or unexploded anti-aircraft shells.

The detailed U.S. reports came amidst sharp criticism of American policy in Vietnam from the Communist world, London, the Vatican and the United Nations.

U.S. officials both in Saigon and Washington made it clear they also believed the damage inside the city was caused by surface-to-air missiles or anti-aircraft shells.

Hanoi is ringed with SAM sites, officials told newsmen, although none is inside the city limits. There are dozens of anti-aircraft batteries.

Choice Ends Nationwide Competition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weston, Ill., was picked today as the site for a $375-million atom smasher.

Closing out a competition that had involved dozens of communities across the nation seeking the gigantic enterprise, the Atomic Energy Commission announced the choice.

The 200-billion-electron-volt proton accelerator is projected as the world's most powerful, designed to unravel many of the mysteries of the structure of matter.

Six sites to which the National Academy of Sciences had narrowed the choice have been under study by the commission since last March.

"All six sites would have been suitable locations for this project," AEC Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg said. "Each proposal had many strong points, making the selection of one site an extremely difficult task. However, after weighing all factors the commission unanimously decided that the Weston site, which the Argonne National Laboratory, is the most suitable location for this large project."

Although Congress has authorized and appropriated money for scientific studies of the project, construction has not yet been authorized.

The facility would employ about 2,000, and would have an annual operating budget of about $60 million.

It would take six to eight years to build after construction funds are appropriated.

The AEC has been searching for a site for the nuclear plant for nearly two years.

Originally there were 200 competitors representing virtually every state. These were pared to 85 and then narrowed to six by the National Academy of Sciences.

The final six, in addition to Weston, were Madison, Wis.; Brookhaven, Long Island, N.Y.; Denver, Colo.; the "Sierra Foot-hills site" near Sacramento, Calif.; and Ann Arbor, Mich.

The atom smasher, designed to explore fundamental secrets of matter for peaceful purposes, would be shaped like a race track nearly a mile in diameter.

The project's operating budget and its 2,000 employees would bolster the economy and scientific prestige of any area.

With respect to the six final lists, the AEC said:

"The AEC has received excellent cooperation from all six proposers and we have no doubt that the information developed for these proposals will be a

Yanks Avoid Hanoi Area

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. warplanes stayed away from the Hanoi area Thursday as controversy continued to rage around the world over American attacks in the vicinity of the North Vietnamese capital.

With missions over the Communist North limited to 58 by bad weather, American pilots made two attacks in the neighborhood of Haiphong, North Vietnam's chief port. But most raids reported by the U.S. Command were in the southern part of North Vietnam, with a few in the area of Dien Bien Phu, near the Laotian frontier.

Rainstorms and a low ceiling were reported in the Hanoi area.

The U. S. Command denied Communist charges that American bombs hit inside Hanoi on Tuesday and Wednesday. The command said a "complete review of pilot reports and photographs showed that all ordnance expended by U.S. strike aircraft was in the military target areas" five miles south and six miles northeast of the city.

The lull in groundfighting in South Vietnam continued, with only small scattered skirmishes reported.

The targets in the Haiphong area Thursday were a radar site 11 miles southeast of the city and cargo barges 26 miles east-southeast of the harbor, the U.S. Command said.

In the special communique denying that American planes had bombed Hanoi, U. S. military headquarters said that U.S. pilots on Wednesday reported seeing one of the surface-to-air missiles which the Soviet Union supplies to North Vietnam hit a North Vietnamese junk and destroyed it.

This apparently was intended to imply that the damage to Hanoi reported Tuesday and Wednesday by the Communists might have been caused by Red anti-aircraft shells or missiles falling onto the city, which is reportedly ringed with some 2,000 anti-aircraft positions. Twice earlier this year American pilots have reported seeing the Soviet-made missiles land in populated areas of North Vietnam.

Ruby's Condition Remains Stable

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Physicians reported today that Jack Ruby's "condition remains stable and essentially unchanged."

The brief medical bulletin said the chemotherapy treatments for cancer for the man who killed Lee Harvey Oswald continued into the second day and that no further treatment is planned at this time.

Physicians Thursday advanced no hope for curing Ruby's cancer, which they reported is beyond the stage where surgery or radiation treatments can help.

Ruby, 35, has been resting comfortably, doctors report, reading, and watching television.

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Five-year-old Lance Cummings died in his sleep clutching a toy green kitten that was one of his favorite gifts.

The cute, red-haired boy — whose incurable sickness attracted international attention — died of stomach cancer Thursday in Chester County Hospital.

Physicians had let him go home Dec. 4 for a "just in case" Christmas party, because they feared he would not live until Dec. 25. Santa Claus paid a visit to the party, bringing a smile to Lance's face and some tears to the guests' eyes.

Hoffa Union Members End Their Strike

Dr. Coppolino Acquitted in Farber Death

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Dr. Carl Coppolino, acquitted of murder but still not free, returns to his home state of Florida today to face yet another trial for his life.

Wracked with emotion, Coppolino, 34, was whisked from the Monmouth County Courthouse and returned to a jail cell Thursday after a jury found him innocent in the death of retired Army Lt. Col. William E. Farber.

Almost immediately, police authorities here made arrangements to fly the gaunt, dark-haired anesthesiologist to Sarasota, Fla., where he is expected to go on trial in February on a charge of murdering his first wife, Carmela.

To Coppolino's attractive blue-eyed wife, Mary, 39, the New Jersey acquittal was a "blighted victory" with another legal battle awaiting her husband in Florida.

Coppolino was accused of strangling and smothering Farber, a Middletown, N.J., neighbor, with a pillow on July 30, 1963, as the colonel's wife, Marjorie, 52 watched in what she described as a hypnotic trance.

Mrs. Farber testified she became Coppolino's "love slave" and through his hypnotic powers tried herself to kill her husband with an injection of anesthesia.

Venezuela Runs Down Terrorists

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Deploying troops in the capital and the countryside, the Venezuelan government pressed a sweeping hunt for Castroite terrorists today.

The Defense Ministry said its forces killed Hugo Daniel Castillo, a tough, Havana-trained guerrilla leader known as "Comandante Behuma," 128 miles south of Caracas.

In the capital, army troops holding the campus of the Central University arrested the 13-man University Bureau of the Venezuelan Communist party. They rounded up 850 other suspects, including the party's youth leader Juevicio Pulgar, president of the University Federation of Student Centers.

Some of the 2,500 troops who occupied the campus Wednesday left it Thursday after the discovery of a cache of hundreds of weapons — government many — with defaced serial numbers.

Sex Slayer Sent to Lima
PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—A 60-day observation period at Lima State Hospital has been ordered for Billy James Eldridge, 19, convicted Thursday in the sex slaying of a minister's son.

Eldridge pleaded guilty of second-degree murder and sodomy, with the murder charge reduced from first-degree, in the June 24 killing of 14-year-old Charles Miller.

The conviction carries a life imprisonment sentence if Eldridge is found sane.

Both Eldridge and Miller, son of the Rev. Gerald Miller, lived in nearby South Webster.

Sees Result As Popular Reaction To Great Society

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Democratic governors say their party lost the November elections because of a surge against President Johnson's Great Society.

But Democratic state executives who caucused Thursday night at this interim National Governors' Conference vigorously rejected Republican suggestions that Johnson might not run again in 1968 because of his low rating in polls and because the GOP picked up 47 House members, three senators and eight governors in last month's balloting.

When questioned at length by reporters after the closed Democratic caucus, Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa said that Johnson will face "a very tough race" if the Republicans present a "respectable opponent" against him two years from now.

Hughes conceded under questioning that there was discussion in the closed session of Johnson's personality traits.

There was the feeling, he reported, that the President's Great Society program was moving too fast.

In this respect, Hughes said, most of the Democratic governors felt they had no real communication with the national administration.

He said they were determined to work out at a subsequent caucus during the conference a way so that Great Society programs could be operated at a "popular level."

In addition, he said, the governors want a broader role in shaping national administration policies.

Hughes, who won re-election by 100,000 votes despite the Democrats' loss of four congressional seats in his state, was asked if he would rather see somebody other than Johnson nominated for president in 1968. He replied: "Absolutely not."

The Iowa governor, who headed the caucus of about 18, said there was no doubt in the minds of any of them that Johnson will offer himself as a candidate again in 1968.

Some Republican governors were suggesting that Johnson will be so discouraged he won't try for a second term.

Republican governors, who rode their own merry-go-round at Colorado Springs, Colo., last week, were wary about getting into the political donnybrook in which the Democrats were indulging.

GOP Gov. George Romney of Michigan, who might become Johnson's Republican opponent in 1968, announced on his arrival that he would not talk any politics while he was here.

Ohio's GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes told newsmen that he probably will be a favorite son, bearing his state's hefty nominating delegation to the convention uncommitted.

"You can't sit here and pre-judge something that's going to happen 18 months from now," he said. "Events have a way of taking care of themselves."

Committee Asks Trust Share Limit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 1967 General Assembly is being asked by a legislative study committee on Ohio banking laws to limit the practice of trust share voting but not ban it entirely.

The committee, which has held monthly hearings most of the year, voted 11-2 Thursday to recommend to the new legislature a proposal "to align state practice with that of national banks."

Federal statute permits national banks to vote their own shares held in trust only in the election of directors, if specifically authorized in a trust document.

We Deny Raids Inside Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States offered the world a flat denial today of North Vietnamese charges that American warplanes bombed inside the city limits of Hanoi Tuesday and Wednesday.

Statements from Saigon and Washington, designed to refute widely spread Communist reports that the United States has begun a new escalation of the Vietnamese war, claimed that: —A review of reconnaissance photos showed that all bombs fell on designated targets: a truck depot two miles south of the city limits and a railroad yard five miles northeast of the city. The photos showed, the U.S. Military Command in Saigon said today, that no bombs fell within the city as shown on a 1965 North Vietnamese map.

—A U.S. Military Command review of pilots' reports on the strikes showed that American warplanes struck only the scheduled target areas. "I didn't see a single bomb off target," said Lt. (j.g.) John Barron, 25, of Philadelphia, one of the pilots who raided the truck park.

—Reports from foreigners living in Hanoi indicated there almost certainly were no deliberate attacks inside the city by American planes, although some homes were badly damaged. The reports, made available by U.S. officials here, also showed that the foreigners believed the damage was caused by North Vietnamese anti-aircraft missiles or unexploded anti-aircraft shells.

The detailed U.S. reports came amidst sharp criticism of American policy in Vietnam from the Communist world, London, the Vatican and the United Nations.

U.S. officials both in Saigon and Washington made it clear they also believed the damage inside the city was caused by surface-to-air missiles or anti-aircraft shells.

Hanoi is ringed with SAM sites, officials told newsmen, although none is inside the city limits. There are dozens of anti-aircraft batteries.

Ruby's Condition Remains Stable

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Physicians reported today that Jack Ruby's "condition remains stable and essentially unchanged."

The brief medical bulletin said the chemotherapy treatments for cancer for the man who killed Lee Harvey Oswald continued into the second day and that no further treatment is planned at this time.

Physicians Thursday advanced no hope for curing Ruby's cancer, which they reported is beyond the stage where surgery or radiation treatments can help.

Ruby, 35, has been resting comfortably, doctors report, reading, and watching television.

They'll Wonder All Their Lives

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Businessman Phil Balyeat bought an old empty safe in a building marked for demolition.

Balyeat and two helpers managed to get the safe, which weighed about 850 pounds, out to the sidewalk — but they couldn't lift it aboard a truck. They went for help.

When they came back, the safe had disappeared.

Russia and Scottish Town Officially End Crimean War

BERWICK-UPON-TWEED, England (AP) — Russia and Berwick-upon-Tweed are at peace after 112 years.

A man from Prussia came up from London to the town of 12,000 people on the Scottish border to end the war.

Because Berwick changed hands 13 times before England finally took it away from Scotland in 1482, the town has a special place in the realm and like Scotland and Wales was given special mention in English state documents.

So when the Crimean War began in 1854, England declared war on Czarist Russia in the name of Victoria, queen of Great Britain, Ireland, Berwick

Choice Ends Nationwide Competition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weston, Ill., was picked today as the site for a $375-million atom smasher.

Closing out a competition that had involved dozens of communities across the nation seeking the gigantic enterprise, the Atomic Energy Commission announced the choice.

The 200-billion-electron-volt proton accelerator is projected as the world's most powerful, designed to unravel many of the mysteries of the structure of matter.

Six sites to which the National Academy of Sciences had narrowed the choice have been under study by the commission since last March.

"All six sites would have been suitable locations for this project," AEC Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg said. "Each proposal had many strong points, making the selection of one site an extremely difficult task. However, after weighing all factors the commission unanimously decided that the Weston site, which the Argonne National Laboratory, is the most suitable location for this large project."

Although Congress has authorized and appropriated money for scientific studies of the project, construction has not yet been authorized.

The facility would employ about 2,000, and would have an annual operating budget of about $80 million.

It would take six to eight years to build after construction funds are appropriated.

The AEC has been searching for a site for the nuclear plant for nearly two years.

Originally there were 200 competitors representing virtually every state. These were pared to 85 and then narrowed to six by the National Academy of Sciences.

The final six, in addition to Weston, were Madison, Wis.; Brookhaven, Long Island, N.Y.; Denver, Colo.; the "Sierra Foothills site" near Sacramento, Calif.; and Ann Arbor, Mich.

The atom smasher, designed to explore fundamental secrets of matter for peaceful purposes, would be shaped like a race track nearly a mile in diameter.

The project's operating budget and its 2,000 employees would bolster the economy and scientific prestige of any area.

With respect to the six finalists, the AEC said:

"The AEC has received excellent cooperation from all six proposers and we have no doubt that the information developed for these proposals will be a

Santa's Visit Just in Time; Lance Is Dead

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Five-year-old Lance Cummings died in his sleep clutching a toy green kitten that was one of his favorite gifts.

The cute, red-haired boy — whose incurable sickness attracted international attention — died of stomach cancer Thursday in Chester County Hospital.

"We thought, perhaps, he might be with us for Christmas," said his father, Walter Cummings of Downingtown. "But when he started having hallucinations we knew he wouldn't last."

Physicians had let him go home Dec. 4 for a "just in case" Christmas party, because they feared he would not live until Dec. 25. Santa Claus paid a visit to the party, bringing a smile to Lance's face and some tears to the guests' eyes.

Soviet's New Budget Eyed With Concern

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Soviet Union's gun-better budget portends new political strains for Moscow.

The budget, reflecting for 1967 the highest rate of military spending in a decade, indicates a substantial hardening of attitude toward the United States and resumption of some of the more chilling tactics of the Cold War.

There are several causes.

First — According to information coming from Moscow, the Kremlin is uneasy about the U.S. government, as if fearing its past performances in Vietnam and the Dominican Republic means it is ready and willing to intervene anywhere in the world in a revolutionary situation.

Second — Official Soviets, the same sources say, have concluded that underdeveloped areas of Asia, Africa and Latin America — independent all too soon — are so unstable that there may be a succession of small wars. The U.S.S.R. itself may be involved in one, just as the Americans now are involved in Vietnam.

Third — The United States is far ahead in experience with guerrilla war, as well as in experimenting with new weapons, new tactics and strategy, new deployment and logistics techniques and the like learned from such developments as Vietnam and the Dominican Republic. The Soviet military has had none of this.

The Soviet Union's military men are believed demanding more preparation for what

Santa's Yuletide 'Cheer' A Bit Much for Store Owners

NEW YORK (AP) — Is Santa Claus headed for hard times? Santa parachuted into a Buffalo, N.Y., shopping center after Thanksgiving and was arrested for illegal parachute jumping.

When he wanted to fly to Clifton, N.J., in a helicopter instead of a sleigh, the city fathers said he couldn't — only foreign powers and public officials are perhaps no airport.

And now Santa has been banished from some stores.

They say he blocks the flow of shoppers and may take a nip or two of Christmas cheer while on the job. For a good Santa is hard to find.

But in most big stores boys and girls still can perch on Santa's knees and whisper their wishes.

"We found there were too many problems involved," said Herbert Teitelbaum, manager of Zayre Inc., a discount store

Death Won't End Vision Created by Walt Disney

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Death has taken producer Walt Disney, a onetime, Missouri farm boy whose creative genius delighted a troubled world.

He died Thursday, 10 days after his 65th birthday and 5½ weeks after a lung operation.

In 40 years Disney's enterprises ranged from such screen delights as Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Snow White to the world-famous amusement park, Disneyland — with more projects even in the works.

Fred MacMurray, star of six Disney films, said, "The joy he brought spanned the barriers of language, customs and nationality."

The empire will keep on growing, said Walt's older brother Roy, president and chairman of the board of Walt Disney Productions.

"Walt Disney's preparation for the future is a solid creative foundation," said Roy. "All the plans for the future that Walt had begun through motion pictures, the expansions of Disneyland, television production and our Florida and Mineral King projects will continue to move ahead."

Besides multimillion-dollar additions to Disneyland, the projects include a $100-million, 27,000-acre Disney World at Orlando, Fla., and a $35-million recreation facility at Mineral King in California's High Sierra.

Funeral services will be private. The family asked that in lieu of flowers contributions be made to the California Institute

Soviet's New

Perhaps, then, it is expedient to bow to military-conservative pressure rather than listen too attentively to demands of a younger generation and a public hungry for more consumer goods.

The government, producing a budget which predicted defense spending a 8 per cent above 1966, pointedly emphasized it also would permit a "further increase" in living standards and that attention still would be given to consumer production.

But the influence of military men is evident in the figures — as are official Soviet worries about what the tumult of war in Vietnam and anti-Sovietism in Red China might bring.

With a public whose hopes had been raised by a decade of stress on a future flourishing economy, refreezing the Cold War will be unpopular. This is all the more true in the light of events in China, upon which many younger generation Soviets look as the real future threat.

And the regime — pulled two ways between the consumer and the military-conservative pressure — will be facing a period of strain.

X-Ray Cruiser Slated Here

A mobile X-ray cruiser will be at the Fairgrounds next week to offer chest X-rays to all positive reactors of skin tests administered by the Pickaway County TB and Health Assn.

All positive reactors to the skin tests should report for chest X-rays, officials requested, including those who have reacted positively to tests given in previous years.

Schedule of the mobile follows: Tuesday and Wednesday, 9:30 a. m. until 12:30 p. m., and 5-8 p. m.; Thursday, 9:30 a. m. until 12:30 p. m.

The X-ray facility will be set up in front of the coliseum on the Fairgrounds.

Pickaway Counties are also reminded that contributions for Christmas seals should be mailed as soon as possible.

Choice Ends

The National Academy's report listing the finalists had this to say about the Weston area finally picked:

"It has satisfactory configuration. Several universities are within about an hour's driving time. Argonne National Laboratory, an AEC facility, is close enough so the two laboratories could receive 'beneficial interactions' from each other. Transmission and generating facilities of the Commonwealth Edison Co. are close to the site, only about 30 minutes from O'Hare Field."

The AEC said it will ask for $10 million in the budget for fiscal 1968, beginning next July 1, for initial design work. Funds for construction will be requested later.

The great atom smasher is to National Accelerator Laboratory planned eventually to employ about 2,000 persons.

Preliminary estimates based on a design by the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory put construction costs at $300 million, plus $75 million for research equipment and a bubble chamber.

"Current intentions," the AEC said, "are to proceed at a somewhat reduced scope with potential for expansion at a later date. This approach would significantly reduce the initial cost of the project."

The AEC described the projected 200-BEV machine as "the biggest and most complex instrument ever built for fundamental scientific research, which will lead to a deeper understanding of the basic forces that govern the universe."

The main ring of the accelerator will have a diameter of one mile and completion of construction is planned within eight years.

In all, 45 states — all except Alaska, Hawaii, Delaware, Vermont and New Hampshire — entered the original competition. And even New Hampshire teamed with Maine in a joint proposal for location of the machine in the latter state near the New Hampshire border.

The competition throughout was keen, and Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., a member of the joint Senate-House Atomic Committee and a persistent critic of the selection process, referred to the race as "The 200 - BEV Bonanza—the government's biggest free offer to all comers since opening of the Cherokee Strip to the homesteaders in 1893."

The accelerator, besides taking rank as the world's most powerful device in the atom-smasher field, is projected as the most costly scientific installation ever built.

Scientists say it may eventually yield a rich practical payoff in new knowledge — in a range from helping develop new sources of energy to new advances in medicine and even weather control.

The office of Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., reported the selection a few minutes ahead of the AEC announcement.

NATO . . .

It was not known if France, already busily wooing Moscow on her own, would join in the NATO declaration. French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville said Thursday that his government had not quit NATO's military network to enter a system of political integration.

Another issue facing the allied ministers was reform of the alliance, thrust to the forefront by France's retreat from military cooperation and the general feeling in Europe that the Soviet threat has lessened materially since the alliance was formed in 1945.

The foreign, defense and finance ministers of the 15 NATO nations were expected to approve a Belgian recommendation to review NATO's goals and organization and formulate reform measures.

This was a main topic of discussion Thursday when the meeting opened.

American officials went into unusual detail to describe the bombing missions Tuesday and Wednesday.

The administration has refused in the past to do more than denounce as propaganda similar Communist charges of bombings against civilians.

Officials refused to say how many American planes were involved in the attacks or if U.S. planes had flown over the center of the city on earlier raids.

They explained that the targets were the same on both Tuesday and Wednesday. The second raid was needed, they added, because not all of the targets were destroyed Tuesday.

SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese Embassy said today it has issued visas to four American women who want to visit Hanoi to see if U.S. planes are bombing civilian targets.

A spokesman for the embassy's consular section said that after the visas were issued, their passports were sent to the Red Chinese embassy for transit visas.

The four women could not be reached for comment.

They are Grace Newman, sister of Pvt. Dennis Mora of New York City, who was sentenced to three years in prison Sept. 8 for refusing to go South Vietnam; Mrs. Joe Griffith, wife of an instructor at Cornell University; Diane Bevel, whose husband is affiliated with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and Barbara Deming, a member of the editorial board of Liberation magazine.

The magazine's editor, David Bellinger, said in New York Thursday that when he returned from Hanoi recently he brought an invitation from the Women's Union of North Viet Nam.

"We've been anxious for some time to have eyewitness reports on what's going on over there," he said. "We've gotten reports that American planes are clearly attacking civilian targets."

Bellinger is coordinator of the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee. He said the women were going as individuals, not representing any group.

In Washington, the State Department said the women had not asked permission to travel to North Vietnam as required by department regulations.

DETROIT (AP) — Yech! That's the sound heard in millions of homes at Christmas each year when male members of the household get their first glimpse of Yuletide neckties.

This year, the Detroit Free Press has decided to do something about it. The morning newspaper has launched "the great ghastly necktie contest."

The newspaper says it will give a prize to anyone who sends in the most ghastly necktie to Y-E-C-H, Post Office Box 919, Detroit, 4826, with a dime enclosed to cover handling.

Everybody will get another tie in return.

Y-E-C-H?

That stands for "your excruciating cravat horror."

The Free Press said it would accept ties from anybody in the country, adding, "The tie you get will be one somebody has sent us, and will be equally as horrible, likely. But it will be a change."

Death Won't End Vision Created by Walt Disney

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Death has taken producer Walt Disney, a one-time Missouri farm boy whose creative genius delighted a troubled world.

He died Thursday, 10 days after his 65th birthday and 5½ weeks after a lung operation.

In 40 years Disney's enterprises ranged from such screen delights as Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Snow White to the world-famous amusement park, Disneyland — with more projects ever in the works.

Fred MacMurray, star of six Disney films, said, "The joy he brought spanned the barriers of language, customs and nationality."

The empire will keep on growing, said Walt's older brother Roy, president and chairman of the board of Walt Disney Productions.

"Walt Disney's preparation for the future is a solid creative foundation," said Roy. "All the plans for the future that Walt had begun through motion pictures, the expansions of Disneyland, television production and our Florida and Mineral King projects will continue to move ahead."

Besides multimillion-dollar additions to Disneyland, the projects include a $100-million, 27,000-acre Disney World at Orlando, Fla., and a $35-million recreation facility at Mineral King in California's High Sierra.

Funeral services will be private. The family asked that in lieu of flowers contributions be made to the California Institute

Soviet's New

Perhaps, then, it is expedient to bow to military-conservative pressure rather than listen too attentively to demands of a younger generation and a public hungry for more consumer goods.

The government, producing a budget which predicted defense spending a 8 per cent above 1966, pointedly emphasized it also would permit a "further increase" in living standards and that attention still would be given to consumer production.

But the influence of military men is evident in the figures — as are official Soviet worries about what the tumult of war in Vietnam and anti-Sovietism in Red China might bring.

With a public whose hopes had been raised by a decade of stress on a future flourishing economy, refreezing the Cold War will be unpopular. This is all the more true in the light of events in China, upon which many younger generation Soviets look as the real future threat.

And the regime — pulled two ways between the consumer and the military-conservative pressure — will be facing a period of strain.

The National Academy's report listing the finalists had this to say about the Weston area finally picked:

"It has satisfactory configuration. Several universities are within about an hour's driving time. Argonne National Laboratory, an AEC facility, is close enough so the two laboratories could receive 'beneficial interactions' from each other. Transmission and generating facilities of the Commonwealth Edison Co. are close to the site, only about 30 minutes from O'Hare Field."

The AEC said it will ask for $10 million in the budget for fiscal 1968, beginning next July 1, for initial design work. Funds for construction will be requested later.

The great atom smasher is to National Accelerator Laboratory planned eventually to employ about 2,000 persons.

Preliminary estimates based on a design by the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory put construction costs at $300 million, plus $75 million for research equipment and a bubble chamber.

"Current intentions," the AEC said, "are to proceed at a somewhat reduced scope with potential for expansion at a later date. This approach would significantly reduce the initial cost of the project."

The AEC described the projected 200-BEV machine as "the biggest and most complex instrument ever built for fundamental scientific research, which will lead to a deeper understanding of the basic forces that govern the universe."

The main ring of the accelerator will have a diameter of one mile and completion of construction is planned within eight years.

In all, 45 states — all except Alaska, Hawaii, Delaware, Vermont and New Hampshire — entered the original competition. And even New Hampshire teamed with Maine in a joint proposal for location of the machine in the latter state near the New Hampshire border.

The competition throughout was keen, and Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., a member of the joint Senate-House Atomic Committee and a persistent critic of the selection process, referred to the race as "The 200-BEV Bonanza—the government's biggest free offer to all comers since opening of the Cherokee Strip to the homesteaders in 1893."

The accelerator, besides taking rank as the world's most powerful device in the atom-smasher field, is projected as the most costly scientific installation ever built.

Scientists say it may eventually yield a rich practical payoff in new knowledge — in a range from helping develop new sources of energy to new advances in medicine and even weather control.

The office of Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., reported the selection a few minutes ahead of the AEC announcement.

NATO . . .

It was not known if France, already busily wooing Moscow on her own, would join in the NATO declaration. French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville said Thursday that his government had not quit NATO's military network to enter a system of political integration.

Another issue facing the allied ministers was reform of the alliance, thrust to the forefront by France's retreat from military cooperation and the general feeling in Europe that the Soviet threat has lessened materially since the alliance was formed in 1945.

The foreign, defense and finance ministers of the 15 NATO nations were expected to approve a Belgian recommendation to review NATO's goals and organization and formulate reform measures.

This was a main topic of discussion Thursday when the meeting opened.

American officials went into unusual detail to describe the bombing missions Tuesday and Wednesday.

The administration has refused in the past to do more than denounce as propaganda similar Communist charges of bombings against civilians.

Officials refused to say how many American planes were involved in the attacks or if U.S. planes had flown over the center of the city on earlier raids.

They explained that the targets were the same on both Tuesday and Wednesday. The second raid was needed, they added, because not all of the targets were destroyed Tuesday.

Saigon spokesmen announced earlier that three U.S. planes were lost in the raids, one of them shot down by a missile-firing MIG. More than 20 MIGs reportedly were encountered during the raids. Hanoi claimed eight U.S. planes were downed.

MOSCOW (AP) — The North Vietnamese Embassy said today it has issued visas to four American women who want to visit Hanoi to see if U.S. planes are bombing civilian targets.

A spokesman for the embassy's consular section said that after the visas were issued, their passports were sent to the Red Chinese embassy for transit visas.

The four women could not be reached for comment. They are Grace Newman, sister of Pvt. Dennis Mora of New York City, who was sentenced to three years in prison Sept. 8 for refusing to go South Vietnam; Mrs. Joe Griffith, wife of an instructor at Cornell University; Diane Bevel, whose husband is affiliated with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and Barbara Edmundo, a member of the editorial board of Liberation magazine.

The magazine's editor, David Bellinger, said in New York Thursday that when he returned from Hanoi recently he brought an invitation from the Women's Union of North Viet Nam.

"We've been anxious for some time to have eyewitness reports on what's going on over there," he said. "We've gotten reports that American planes are clearly attacking civilian targets."

Bellinger is coordinator of the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee. He said the women were going as individuals, not representing any group.

In Washington, the State Department said the women had not asked permission to travel to North Vietnam as required by department regulations.

They are Glenn L. Martin and William E. Boeing, plane designers who founded two of the world's biggest aircraft companies; Adm. John H. Towers, commander of the first attempt at transatlantic flight; Maj. Gen. Billy Mitchell, pioneer advocate of military air power; Robert H. Goddard, the world's first great rocket scientist, and Lincoln Beachey, early designer of dirigibles.

The trombone presentation was made to the museum at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base by David MacKay of New York City, longtime friend of Miller, famed band leader of World War II days.

Miller, then a major in the Army Air Corps Band, vanished with the airplane carrying him from London to Paris to entertain troops in Europe on Dec. 15, 1944.

You Are Invited To Join Exchange Of Yule Cravats

DETROIT (AP) — Yech! That's the sound heard in millions of homes at Christmas each year when male members of the household get their first glimpse of Yuletide neckties.

This year, the Detroit Free Press has decided to do something about it. The morning newspaper has launched "the great ghastly necktie contest."

The newspaper says it will give a prize to anyone who sends in the most ghastly necktie to Y-E-C-H, Post Office Box 919, Detroit, 4823, with a dime enclosed to cover handling.

Everybody will get another tie in return.

That stands for "your exorcising cravat horror."

The Free Press said it would accept ties from anybody in the country, adding, "The tie you get will be one somebody has sent us, and will be equally as horrible, likely. But it will be a change."

Saigon Racketeering Isn't Dead

EDITOR'S NOTE — A two-month study by a team of Associated Press reporters led to half a dozen articles in mid-November on theft, bribery, waste, black marketing and currency manipulation sapping the allied war effort in Vietnam. Here is a followup report.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN and FRED S. HOFFMAN
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The heat is on riverfront theft rings, black marketing and war profiteering in Saigon, but the crime and pilferage problems of South Vietnam are far from solved.

U.S. and Vietnamese authorities are expanding measures to reduce the drain from these traditional by products of war.

In the wake of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's crackdown on corruption last month, the rickety stalls offering vintage champagne, transistor radios and U.S. AID blankets have vanished from P Alley, around the corner from the U.S. Embassy.

But a whispered order to a sidewalk vendor can still produce contraband goods.

In the joint allied effort to broaden the crackdown:

—The U.S. military is posting soldiers to check against theft from warehouses through which U.S. economic AID goods — among the most vulnerable pilferage items — pass into the country. While lacking power to arrest Vietnamese civilians, the soldiers can call in police if they see something out of line.

—A new system of harbor patrols, with four-man teams of U.S. and Vietnamese military, customs and police agents manning 25 motor craft, has been instituted to tighten security on the crowded Saigon waterfront which Premier Ky only a month ago angrily called "A den of thieves." More patrol craft will be needed.

—Documentation of incoming cargo — with Vietnamese checking and Americans confirming the check — has been working more and more effectively, U.S.

officials say. And military convoys are beginning to escort some direct economic AID goods.

—The U.S. Agency for International Development is beefing up a staff of customs officers, auditors and intelligence agents and is running the first trials of a computer system which is supposed to take the guesswork out of keeping track of the movements of goods every step of the way from the United States.

"We're going to have some answers around the first of the year and better answers in the spring," an AID official said.

The General Accounting Office, tough investigative agency for Congress, disclosed it is broadening its surveillance over the way American agencies handle the $25 billion-a-year Vietnam spending program.

Sen. Milton R. Young, senior Republican on the Senate Appropriations Committee, said after an on-the-spot check in Vietnam that the diversion and pilferage situation is improving. The North Dakota senator credited The AP series with helping spark some of the reforms.

Despite the general tightening up, problems of theft and diversion still haunt the country.

The black market still flour-ishes in Da Nang, biggest city in the north. There a buyer can obtain jungle boots, rubber mattresses, mosquito netting and similar items still in short supply for the 66,000 Marines stationed in the area.

During Thanksgiving week, 30 television sets were put on sale at the post exchange in Qui Nhon. Three days later, 26 of them were confiscated from the black market by national police. The serial numbers were traced to South Korean soldiers.

Rice continued to be a major point of controversy in the corruption problem.

In the last week of November, Australian jungle fighters sweeping through Phuoc Tuy Province uncovered a cache of rice similar to the three million pounds seized by the U.S. 196th Light Infantry Brigade on Halloween in Tay Ninh Province.

The rice was in machine-stitched bags still bearing the names of American millers in Houston, Tex., and Abbeville, La. Some of the highly polished rice was encased in plastic sacks inside the burlap bags.

Three civilian AID employees who cooperated with The AP team uncovering corruption were called on the carpet by their superiors. Another, who wrote a report saying that American rice was found in Tay Ninh Province, was prevailed on to change his story.

The agency maintains that no one mentioned in The AP series has been harassed, but says "their stories are being checked for facts."

CITY LENDS A HELPING HAND—A financially troubled little hospital caring for 85 Negro and white patients, most of them elderly and on welfare, was given $13,440 by the city of New York to keep the non-profit hospital from closing because of failure to pay its rent. Staff members above erected a wire fence earlier to prevent eviction of patients.

Record Betting At Ohio Tracks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans spent more on the horses than ever this year State Auditor Archer E. Reilly said today.

Betting at the state's race tracks reached a record high, with $187,351,906 wagered at the pari-mutuel windows. This was more than a $22 million, or 13.4 per cent increase over 1965, the previous all-time high, according to Reilly.

The figures were compiled following a final audit of all tax revenues collected at the various tracks in Ohio.

The black market still flour-ishes in Da Nang, biggest city in the north. There a buyer can obtain jungle boots, rubber mattresses, mosquito netting and similar items still in short supply for the 66,000 Marines stationed the area.

During Thanksgiving week, 30 television sets were put on sale at the post exchange in Qui Nhon. Three days later, 26 of them were confiscated from the black market by national police. The serial numbers were traced to South Korean soldiers.

Rice continued to be a major point of controversy in the corruption problem.

In the last week of November, Australian jungle fighters sweeping through Phuoc Tuy Province uncovered a cache of rice similar to the three million pounds seized by the U.S. 196th Light Infantry Brigade on Hal-loween in Tay Ninh Province.

The rice was in machine-stitched bags still bearing the names of American millers in Houston, Tex., and Abbeville, La. Some of the highly polished rice was encased in plastic sacks inside the burlap bags.

Three civilian AID employees who cooperated with The AP team uncovering corruption were called on the carpet by their superiors. Another, who wrote a report saying that American rice was found in Tay Ninh Province, was prevailed on to change his story.

The agency maintains that no one mentioned in The AP series has been harassed, but says "their stories are being checked for facts."

CITY LENDS A HELPING HAND—A financially troubled little hospital caring for 85 Negro and white patients, most of them elderly and on welfare, was given $13,440 by the city of New York to keep the non-profit hospital from closing because of failure to pay its rent. Staff members above erected a wire fence earlier to prevent eviction of patients.

Record Betting At Ohio Tracks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans spent more on the horses than ever this year State Auditor Archer E. Reilly said today.

Betting at the state's race tracks reached a record high, with $187,351,906 wagered at the pari-mutuel windows. This was more than a $22 million, or 13.4 per cent increase over 1965, the previous all-time high, according to Reilly.

The figures were compiled following a final audit of all tax revenues collected at the various tracks in Ohio.

Steve McQueen, Ex-Dropout

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Steve McQueen is a high school dropout who can now ask and get $750,000 a picture and a big handful of the profits.

"I only made the ninth grade," said Steve, who subsequently got his higher education in the well-known school of hard knocks.

McQueen loves to recall the wandering roustabout years of his youth.

During those years he worked as a tanker deckhand, a lumberman, a farmhand, a carnival barker, a ballpoint pen salesman, a television repairman. He also served a hitch in the U.S. Marines and became a top-ranked racing driver.

"Although I'm a city boy at heart, I like farm life," he said. "Working with animals gives you a great feeling of right and wrong. Farmers are dead-shot honest people."

"You can learn a lot of odd things on a farm, too. For example, I learned that pigs like to eat coal. Just why, I don't know. But they'll eat all the coal you carry to them."

It was while drifting from job to job in Greenwich Village that Steve became interested in acting.

That was in 1950. Steve lived in a $19-a-month walkup apartment and earned — when he could find work — $1.15 an hour repairing television sets.

"There was a cook in a little restaurant who would trust me for up to $30 worth of veal cutlets and beer. He gave me a nickname — 'Desperado.'"

"It wasn't too hard a life, but all I really miss from those Greenwich Village days is the obscurity I enjoyed then. Those are the good old days for me."

"What difference has success made in my life. 'Well' — Steve chuckled drily — "somehow I seem to have more friends."

McQueen is built as trimly as a middleweight boxer. He believes in keeping himself, as well as his racing cars, perfectly tuned up.

By Hal Boyle

"Self indulgence is a bad thing for a man," he observed. "Many people who win a little success have a tendency to forget the importance of their body. You can buy a new car but you can't buy yourself a new body if you wreck the one you have."

"I believe in exercise, eating good, and not juicing too much. I like a little Mexican beer or white wine, but I don't go in for the hard booze. Can't handle it."

Steve has a simple philosophy. "If a man doesn't have obstacles, he begins to decay. A man ought to do the job he likes. If he doesn't, he's twisting his own head."

If Steve has any fears, poverty isn't one of them.

"If I ever blew what I've made, I figure I could do it all over again," he said. "But I don't waste money."

"They say I'm a little tight, and I suspect it's because I throw pennies around like they were manhole covers."

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The automotive industry is perhaps the most powerful industry in the world, but recent statements by its leaders — to say nothing of production cutbacks — reveal a growing caution beneath an overlay of optimism.

This caution reveals a respect for ambiguous economic signals, one of the most important of which is the uncertain mind of the consumer.

Big as it is, the automotive industry knows it is not total master of its market.

Being so powerful a force in the economy of nations, the industry must assume a responsibility to look on the hopeful side of things. But this is getting harder to do.

A recent statement by General Motors, for example, told of great hopes and expectations for the coming year. Beneath this veneer, however, was uncertainly and an actual forecast of lower sales for the second straight year.

But how far should the industry go in courting the public?

In Germany, the Volkswagen people told their shareholders earlier this month that things were looking well. A little more than a week later it announced from Wolfsburg that all plants would close for 17 days.

Pressed for an explanation, company officials admitted they didn't wish to add to the already prevalent economic pessimism in West Germany.

Detroit's chief occupation is an extraordinary example of an industry that has not only met a need, but created a tremendous demand through quality products, salesmanship and marketing.

This has brought to General Motors, for example, a gross income comparable to the receipts of the entire United Kingdom or France, greater than West Germany, and nearly equal to the combined incomes of Japan and Canada.

Despite this, the automotive industry cannot dictate. The consumer refused to buy the Edsel, for example, and Ford lost hundreds of millions of dollars.

In the post-World War II years, American Motors pushed the compact car, found it was to the public's liking at the time, and forced the larger car manufacturers to produce smaller versions.

But public tastes change. The tastes of Americans grew richer as their pocketbooks fattened, for compacts have grown larger with each year.

Recognition of consumer power was revealed by GM in its year-end estimates for the coming year.

Frederic Donner, its chairman, stated: "To the traditional concept of the family car has been added the personal car which reflects in its styling, performance and optional equipment the exacting desires of the individual."

In response to the varied wishes of consumers, he said, GM now has 177 different models in its 1967 line compared with 81 in 1957.

Try and Stop Me

BILL VEECK, one of the smartest baseball executives in the history of the game, admits, "There are a hundred fans in any grandstand capable of making the same moves on the field during any game as the most astute manager."

Strategy is, after all, less than 25 per cent of a ball game. All a manager is, really, is a personnel director. Take a top guy from industry who hasn't seen a game in ten years and if he uses the true percentage of strategy, he'll probably do as well or better than the average big league manager."

A famous singer, now retired, was the proud possessor of a powerful bass voice. One night, he reported, he had a gratifying dream: "I was in a great heavenly choir: a thousand sopranos, a thousand tenors, a thousand altos—and me the only bass. Suddenly the conductor stopped the singing short, turned to me, and said—quite respectfully, and a bit awed, in fact—'Not quite so loud in the bass, my boy!'"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I've just given birth to my fourth child. After each one I feel a terrible sense of depression that frightens me, mostly because I don't understand it.

I am happily married, love my children and even plan to have two more. I absolutely go into a panic before the child is born because I know how terrible I will feel afterwards. Is there any explanation for this? Will it get worse?

Mrs. H.R.A., Michigan Dear Mrs. A.: The feeling of depression that you describe after the birth of your children is not an unusual one. Many mothers after a very happy pregnancy, are surprised by the letdown that follows the ecstasy of childbirth.

The fact that your depressed feelings disappear rapidly means that there is probably no reason for you to be concerned. Nevertheless, it would be wise to speak out these fears either with your doctor or a psychiatrist whom he may recommend.

Only recently a rather interesting article came to my attention about the problem you describe. It was published by the Maternity Center Association in New York City. In their magazine briefs they devote themselves to the total education of the pregnant woman and highlight the most important aspects of maternity care.

The article was called "Third Day Blues." In it they reported the work of Dr. F. Carreras of Barcelona, Spain. He noted that some time between the third and the tenth day after a baby was born the young, happy mother would burst into tears without any reasonable explanation for it.

In addition to tears there seemed to be fears and anxieties that had not existed before. Mothers seemed to be terrified that they would lose their attractiveness and their relationships with their husbands would suffer.

Dr. Carreras explained these feelings of anxiety by calling them real emotional crises. He believes that the anxiety about going into labor, the family social and economic problems and the hormone changes of pregnancy were responsible.

Some mothers develop a sense of anxiety because they want to breastfeed their infants and do not believe that they will be able to. Dr. Carreras even ties this up with the mother's own infancy. Apparently the third day blues are not nearly as com-

Jokers at the U.N.

By John Chamberlain

A year ago the UN looked as though it might expire from insolvency. France and the Soviet Union weren't paying any money for peace keeping, and U Thant, the Secretary General, faced with an eternal deficit, was threatening to go back to teaching.

Somehow Thant was persuaded to stay on, with assurances that he'd get three square meals a day and a working budget. But he faces a different sort of trouble for 1967: this time the UN is an imminent danger of being laughed to death.

The clowns, little and big, are getting in their devastating licks. The other day a rumor swept the delegates' dining room that the lobster tails on the menu were from South Africa. A hurry call to the chef produced the information that the offending tails were actually from New Zealand, which may have been the truth. So a threatened African hunger strike was averted. While the flurry about the lobster tails was on, none of the African delegates' wives was caught throwing a single South African diamond into the East River.

Jamil M. Baroodi, Saudi Arabia's ambassadorial gift to the UN, clowns over bigger things than lobster tails. His standard gambit is to call for the removal of the UN from New York City. Sometimes he wants it reconstituted in Malta, at other times in Cyprus, or maybe in Switzerland. Anything to get it away from "the hoodlums and gangsters" of New York. Actually, Ambassador Baroodi happens to be a confirmed New Yorker. One of his good friends, a Jew who doesn't make an issue of Zionism with him, tells me that Baroodi wouldn't leave Manhattan's pavements if you were to pay him in good Saudi Arabian oil stock. Baroodi just knows that he has to be anti-American at stated intervals to keep the franchise and to get Saudi Arabia in the headlines.

Baroodi calls the United States uncivilized. The real joke — and it is a bitter one — is that his own Saudi Arabia is high on the list of countries that still practice slavery.

It so happened that even as Ambassador Baroodi was calling at cocktail parties, two officials from the London Anti-Slavery Society were busy in New York setting up an agenda for a debate on slavery before the UN Human Rights Committee.

The literature they have brought with them is interesting. Practically all of the instances of existing slavery reported by the Anti-Slavery Society are found in Afro-Asian bloc countries that sometimes follow Ambassador Baroodi in his denunciations of the United States. Algeria, India, Ethiopia, Aden, the Sultanate of Muscat and Oman, Syria, Botswana, Gabon, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Yemen, and Tanzania are prominently mentioned in the Society's literature along with Brazil, where Indians have been forced to tap rubber trees, and Mexico, where some instances of so-called white slavery are alleged to exist. The most damaging charges of all, however, are those leveled against Saudi Arabia, where the slave population, as of 1962, was set at 250,000. King Faisal of Saudi Arabia has made slave holding illegal, but two years after the Faisal decree of 1962 only 1,000 slaves had been given their freedom.

So this is the nation whose UN ambassador calls New York a haunt of "hoodlums and gangsters" which has a "bad moral effect" on many of the UN delegates. Ambassador Baroodi has carried on boisterously about the temptations in New York to play the stock market, or at least the horses. He has also warned UN delegates' wives and daughters against the danger of walking in New York streets after dark.

Louis Harris and Associates, Inc., has been polling the UN delegates about their opinions of New York. The African delegations actually tend to rate New York favorably, although they have complained about such things as the inability to hail taxicab drivers successfully at night. "They don't want to have to go to Harlem," one African said. But whatever the faults of Harlem and before the recent election taxi drivers complained of a lack of protection there when the police were worried about complaints to a civilian review board, it is a free locality in a free country. Not like down on the old plantation in Baroodi's Saudi Arabia.

Washington Shy On Hanoi Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. bombers apparently have been hitting military targets closer to the center of Hanoi in recent days and there has been no direct official denial that some bombs may have struck residential areas of the North Vietnamese capital accidentally.

Qualified Washington officials are extremely reluctant to discuss what is happening at this stage of the long aerial campaign against North Vietnam. The State Department has even refused to define exactly what is meant by "the city of Hanoi" for purposes of U.S. bombing plans.

In spite of this officially created mystery, there has so far been no flat denial that U.S. aircraft may have struck military targets within what might be called Hanoi by some definitions.

The failure of the Pentagon and State department to provide a clearcut account of what is happening, coupled with guarded private comments from informed officials, indicates that some strikes have been carried out in Hanoi, if the term is taken to include the suburbs.

But officials also insisted today that this does not represent an escalation in the air war against the North. They base their argument on the fact that last June, the United States began hitting oil storage centers in the Hanoi area.

Communist North Vietnam charged Wednesday that for the second day, U.S. planes had struck residential areas in Hanoi. Previously, Communist sources, including the Soviet news agency Tass, had claimed an attack on a community of workers' homes.

An American military spokesman in Saigon said that Air Force and Navy planes had bombed targets close to Hanoi for the second day running. The targets were defined as a railroad yard six miles northeast of the city and a truck depot five miles south.

What a military spokesman means when he speaks of a certain distance "from Hanoi," however, is one of the critical questions in the Hanoi bombing confusion.

One meaning which may have wide acceptance is a distance from the city limits.

But officials here say privately that the point of measurement is not the city limits but a point at the center of the city.

Thus an air strike officially announced as six miles from Hanoi would in fact be six miles from the center of the city.

A State Department spokesman press officer Robert J. McCloskey was asked at a news conference Wednesday, "Have we bombed Hanoi?"

"We have not," McCloskey first replied, but then hastily added, "What do you mean by 'Hanoi'?"

When pressed on this point, he said: "I took the question to mean that these are civilian targets or population centers, people and the rest, which one generally associates when talking about a city, and what I have said is that so far as I am aware, the policy is — so far as targets are concerned — directed against military and militarily associated targets."

When asked whether such targets were inside Hanoi's city limits, McCloskey replied: "I just can't answer that. I don't know what on — how one defines what the city limits are."

World War I Debts Still Are Unpaid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World War I debt owed to the United States by the rest of the world jumped another $337 million in interest last fiscal year to more than $21 billion.

Only one country — Finland — even made any payments during that time.

Seventeen nations owe the sum almost 50 years after the "war to end all wars."

A new tabulation of world War I debt was prepared by the Treasury Department for the annual report of the secretary early next year. Officials made it available today on request.

It showed the total debt reached $21,028,604,481.26 as of last June 30. Interest accumulating during the fiscal year ending that date was $337,294,964.16.

The rest of the world owes Uncle Sam an additional $19 billion on World War I post-war debts, not including interest.

If the total of about $40 billion were suddenly paid off, this country could reduce its own national debt from just under $330 billion to about $290 billion.

Three countries have paid off their World War I debts: Cuba, Liberia and Nicaragua. Of the remaining 17 only Finland is current in her payments.

Last fiscal year Finland paid off another $179,000 on outstanding principle and $174,352.50 in interest — a total of $333,252.50.

She still owes $4.9 million.

Payments on World War I debts, except from Finland, stopped after a one year moratorium was declared in 1932. The United States agreed in 1953 that no further payments need be made until final settlement of World War I preparations by Germany, a settlement nowhere in sight at this time with Germany divided.

Great Britain still owes the most on its World War I debt but also has paid more than any other country. Her debt as of

Director Dislikes Making Films Outside Native Italy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The lean, long-faced Italian gazed mournfully at the wild screen film stars and lesser-knowns, dolled up in miniskirts and mod cloths, writhing on the dance floor to the ear-splitting music of a rock 'n' roll combo.

"I can direct better scenes in my films," muttered Michelangelo Antonioni.

The great Italian director was guest of honor this week at a London-style bash given by Vanessa Redgrave and David Hemmings, costars of his first English-language film, "The Blow-up."

Antonioni occasionally lapsed into a smile as he met such guests as Rosalind Russell, Natalie Wood, Rock Hudson, Rex Harrison and Warren Beatty.

But most of the evening he viewed the scene dourly, as seems to be his custom. In the quieter surroundings of his hotel suite, he took a dim view of filming outside Italy. He shot "The Blow-up" in England earlier this year.

"Mentally it is difficult to work in England," he said in his halting English. "The system of work is so much different from Italy. I need around me a climate of enthusiasm, and that is not easy to have when you work in a studio. It is like working in a bank or office."

"It is impossible to shoot fast in England; the unions do not allow it. You have the tea break in the morning and in the afternoon the English drink gallons of tea."

"I like to shoot in the streets, but in London you run into problems with Scotland Yard and other authorities. One night I started filming in Regent Street at 9 in the evening and the police came and said 'Stop!' I was forced to halt production until 2 in the morning."

"In Italy that would never happen. You would slip some money to the policeman and go on shooting."

Despite these comments, Antonioni admitted he had enjoyed the experience and would even welcome a chance to make a film in Hollywood. He has the germ of an idea for such a movie, he said, but its little more than that at this time. How did he fare in his first directorial job in English?

"It was difficult," he admitted. "When you are not working in your native tongue, you feel unsure and you worry that you might get the wrong intonation."

"But I understand English better than I speak it. When I heard the lines being said, I could tell whether they sounded right or not. And I would change them if they didn't sound right."

Offer Rejected

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Fraternal Order of Police has turned down a pay offer by Mayor John Ballard that would have raised salaries to a top scale of $7,900 Jan. 1.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is not going to be one of those glistening, joyous Christmases even if the snow flies and warm candles light a thousand windows.

There is too much unfinished business knocking around the edges of the holiday, too much uncertainty, too much uneasiness.

In the Holy Land itself there is no war, but there is no real peace. There is tension between Jews and Moslems.

There will be 48-hour Christmas and New Year's truces in Vietnam, and Preside Johnson's administration says it is ready to discuss an extension of the truces.

But the White House has indicated it is not interested in extending a pause in the bombing — as it did last year, with no visible benefit for the American side — without some corresponding action from the other side.

So far there has been none. As of now the prospect is for the same old war between the holidays and afterwards and no sign anywhere that the war is closer to an end than it was last Christmas.

This makes the favorite holiday phrase, "peace on earth, good will to men" more a wish than a reality.

The Soviets have upped their military spending about 8 per cent, blaming the need for the boost on what they call American aggression in Vietnam, just at a time when American-Soviet relations might have been improving.

The Red Chinese are not a menace yet on a world scale but they are trying hard to be, and soon will be, making present days seem as tranquil and noiseless as the times when man's only weapon was a rock.

In this country the economy seems to be having twitches. Industrial production dropped in November as the output of automobiles, other consumer goods, iron and steel went down.

No one seems to know at this minute whether Johnson — he himself may not know right now — will ask for higher taxes in 1967. Meanwhile, his own popularity, according to the polls, like industrial production is going down.

There is general puzzlement about Johnson himself, provoked by his strange abstinence from politics for months, even though his Democrats suffered damage in the last elections and he himself is a genuine, original, home-grown, life-long politician.

His withdrawal from politics, his failure to make speeches or explanations of almost any kind, although in his earlier White House days he always seemed to have a microphone in his hand, seems almost incredible.

In addition, his Great Society

program is in trouble. The war on poverty is in retreat, the war on city problems has slowed down, any try for new civil rights legislation in 1967 is in for a rough time.

While calamities are neither in sight nor expected, although they could happen, there has been an erosion of peace and peace of mind.

Washington Shy On Hanoi Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. bombers apparently have been hitting military targets closer to the center of Hanoi in recent days and there has been no direct official denial that some bombs may have struck residential areas of the North Vietnamese capital accidentally.

Qualified Washington officials are extremely reluctant to discuss what is happening at this stage of the long aerial campaign against North Vietnam. The State Department has even refused to define exactly what is meant by "the city of Hanoi" for purposes of U.S. bombing plans.

In spite of this officially created mystery, there has so far been no flat denial that U.S. aircraft may have struck military targets within what might be called Hanoi by some definitions.

The failure of the Pentagon and State department to provide a clearcut account of what is happening, coupled with guarded private comments from informed officials, indicates that some strikes have been carried out in Hanoi, if the term is taken to include the suburbs.

But officials also insisted today that this does not represent an escalation in the air war against the North. They base their argument on the fact that last June, the United States began hitting oil storage centers in the Hanoi area.

Communist North Vietnam charged Wednesday that for the second day, U.S. planes had struck residential areas in Hanoi. Previously, Communist sources, including the Soviet news agency Tass, had claimed an attack on a community of workers' homes.

An American military spokesman in Saigon said that Air Force and Navy planes had bombed targets close to Hanoi for the second day running. The targets were defined as a railroad yard six miles northeast of the city and a truck depot five miles south.

What a military spokesman means when he speaks of a certain distance "from Hanoi," however, is one of the critical questions in the Hanoi bombing confusion.

One meaning which may have wide acceptance is a distance from the city limits.

But officials here say privately that the point of measurement is not the city limits but a point at the center of the city.

Thus an air strike officially announced as six miles from Hanoi would in fact be six miles from the center of the city.

A State Department spokesman press officer Robert J. McCloskey was asked at a news conference Wednesday, "Have we bombed Hanoi?"

"We have not," McCloskey first replied, but then hastily added, "What do you mean by 'Hanoi'?"

When pressed on this point, he said: "I took the question to mean that these are civilian targets or population centers, people and the rest, which one generally associates when talking about a city, and what I have said is that so far as I am aware, the policy is — so far as targets are concerned — directed against military and militarily associated targets."

When asked whether such targets were inside Hanoi's city limits, McCloskey replied: "I just can't answer that. I don't know what on — how one defines what the city limits are."

World War I Debts Still Are Unpaid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World War I debt owed to the United States by the rest of the world jumped another $337 million in interest last fiscal year to more than $21 billion.

Only one country — Finland — even made any payments during that time.

Seventeen nations owe the sum almost 50 years after the "war to end all wars."

A new tabulation of world War I debt was prepared by the Treasury Department for the annual report of the secretary early next year. Officials made it available today on request.

It showed the total debt reached $21,028,604,481.26 as of last June 30. Interest accumulating during the fiscal year ending that date was $337,294,964.16.

The rest of the world owes Uncle Sam an additional $19 billion on World War II post-war debts, not including interest.

If the total of about $40 billion were suddenly paid off, this country could reduce its own national debt from just under $330 billion to about $290 billion.

Three countries have paid off their World War I debts: Cuba, Liberia and Nicaragua. Of the remaining 17 only Finland is current in her payments.

Last fiscal year Finland paid off another $179,000 on outstanding principle and $174,352.50 in interest — a total of $353,252.50.

She still owes $4.9 million.

Payments on World War I debts, except from Finland, stopped after a one year moratorium was declared in 1932. The United States agreed in 1953 that no further payments need be made until final settlement of World War I preparations by Germany, a settlement nowhere in sight at this time with Germany divided.

Great Britain still owes the most on its World War I debt but also has paid more than any other country. Her debt as of

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The lean, long-faced Italian gazed mournfully at the wild screen film stars and lesser-knowns, dolled up in miniskirts and mod clothes, writhing on the dance floor to the ear-splitting music of a rock 'n' roll combo.

"I can direct better scenes in my films," muttered Michelangelo Antonioni.

The great Italian director was guest of honor this week at a London-style bash given by Vanessa Redgrave and David Hemmings, costars of his first English-language film, "The Blow-up." Antonioni occasionally lapsed into a smile as he met such guests as Rosalind Russell, Natalie Wood, Rock Hudson, Rex Harrison and Warren Beatty.

But most of the evening he viewed the scene dourly, as seems to be his custom. In the quieter surroundings of his hotel suite, he took a dim view of filming outside Italy. He shot "The Blow-up" in England earlier this year.

"Mentally it is difficult to work in England," he said in his halting English. "The system of work is so much different from Italy. I need around me a climate of enthusiasm, and that is not easy to have when you work in a studio. It is like working in a bank or office."

"It is impossible to shoot fast in England; the unions do not allow it. You have the tea break in the morning and in the afternoon the English drink gallons of tea.

"I like to shoot in the streets, but in London you run into problems with Scotland Yard and other authorities. One night I started filming in Regent Street at 9 in the evening and the police came and said 'Stop!' I was forced to halt production until 2 in the morning."

"In Italy that would never happen. You would slip some money to the policeman and go on shooting."

Despite these comments, Antonioni admitted he had enjoyed the experience and would even welcome a chance to make a film in Hollywood. He has the germ of an idea for such a movie, he said, but its little more than that at this time. How did he fare in his first directorial job in English?

"It was difficult," he admitted. "When you are not working in your native tongue, you feel unsure and you worry that you might get the wrong intonation."

"But I understand English better than I speak it. When I heard the lines being said, I could tell whether they sounded right or not. And I would change them if they didn't sound right."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is not going to be one of those glistening, joyous Christmases even if the snow flies and warm candles light a thousand windows.

There is too much unfinished business knocking around the edges of the holiday, too much uncertainty, too much uneasiness.

In the Holy Land itself there is no war, but there is no real peace. There is tension between Jews and Moslems.

There will be 48-hour Christmas and New Year's truces in Vietnam, and Preside Johnson's administration says it is ready to discuss an extension of the truces.

But the White House has indicated it is not interested in extending a pause in the bombing — as it did last year, with no visible benefit for the American side — without some corresponding action from the other side.

So far there has been none. As of now the prospect is for the same old war between the holidays and afterwards and no sign anywhere that the war is closer to an end than it was last Christmas.

This makes the favorite holiday phrase, "peace on earth, good will to men" more a wish than a reality.

The Soviets have upped their military spending about 8 per cent, blaming the need for the boost on what they call American aggression in Vietnam, just at a time when American-Soviet relations might have been improving.

The Red Chinese are not a menace yet on a world scale but they are trying hard to be, and soon will be, making present days seem as tranquil and noiseless as the times when man's only weapon was a rock.

In this country the economy seems to be having twitches. Industrial production dropped in November as the output of automobiles, other consumer goods, iron and steel went down.

No one seems to know at this minute whether Johnson — he himself may not know right now — will ask for higher taxes in 1967. Meanwhile, his own popularity, according to the polls, like industrial production is going down.

There is general puzzlement about Johnson himself, provoked by his strange abstinence from politics for months, even though his Democrats suffered damage in the last elections and he himself is a genuine, original, home-grown, life-long politician.

His withdrawal from politics, his failure to make speeches or explanations of almost any kind, although in his earlier White House days he always seemed to have a microphone in his hand, seems almost incredible.

In addition, his Great Society

By James Marlow

program is in trouble. The war on poverty is in retreat, the war on city problems has slowed down, any try for new civil rights legislation in 1967 is in for a rough time.

While calamities are neither in sight nor expected, although they could happen, there has been an erosion of peace and peace of mind.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Adults Should Act the 'Part'

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are retired. We rented a beautiful apartment (not cheap) which does not rent to couples with small children. That's one of the reasons we took this place. The people directly above us have their grandchildren over there and four afternoons a week. They are three little kids, under six years old, and you never heard such commotion.

They chase each other around knocking things over, screaming and yelling and thumping and bumping. I have pounded my ceiling with a broom handle, and even got out some pots and pans and banged them together to give them a taste of their own medicine, but it didn't help.

I complained to the manager. He told me to talk to the landlord. I talked to the landlord. He told me to complain to the manager. We have a three-year lease and like this apartment. What do we do now?

STUCK
DEAR ABBY: The "kids" are under six years old. What is your excuse? Mature, reasonable grown-ups do not "give people a taste of their own medicine" in the manner you describe. Go upstairs, knock on their door and talk with the adults.

DEAR ABBY: A few days ago a girl was standing near me in the hall at school while I was repeating to some of the guys a poem I'd heard. It was a little, short thing. The girl asked me if I would write it out for her so I did.

Mrs. Jones Entertains Women's Club

The Town and Country Club met in the home of Mrs. Lois Jones with Mrs. Daisy Brintlinger as co-hostess.

"Keeping Christ in Christmas" was Mrs. Gwen Deffenbaugh's theme for her demonstration on holiday decorations. She explained the significant meanings of the items in each arrangement.

Mrs. Lois Jones, president, conducted the meeting. The manual arts class of Laurelville High School has agreed to make table and benches for the Chillicothe Memorial Park. Each member gave a gift for the me at Chillicothe Veterans Hospital.

A gift exchange was enjoyed by everyone present and Mrs. Edna Law was accepted as a new member.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Mary Lou Maxson, Mrs. Wanda Seimer, Mrs. Mary Ann Delong, Mrs. Donna Strous, Mrs. May Ann Justice, Mrs. Ann Luckhart, Mrs. Janice Jones, Mrs. Becky Valentine, Mrs. Esther Collins and Mrs. Karen Hoffman.

Guests present were Mrs. Eva Jean Hitch and Mrs. Marilyn Hardbarger.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

Well, the girl's mother got a hold of it in some unintentional way and read it. I guess I should mention, the poem was in rather poor taste. I called the girl the next day, and her mother answered the phone and said I was never to call or see this girl again.

I like this girl a lot and she likes me. We are both very upset over this incident. I called and apologized to the mother, but she won't let us see each other. What should I do?

DYING
DEAR DYING: Nothing. Perhaps in time the mother will reconsider and give you another chance, but personally, I think you're dead in that league. There is a good lesson to be learned from this. Don't put anything in writing that could incriminate or demean you.

DEAR ABBY: Because of you, my Christmas is a lot merrier this year. Last year my husband was driving me crazy sitting around the house doing nothing. He had just retired at age 65, was in good health, and didn't know what to do with himself. He'd worked hard all his life and never had time to cultivate any hobbies.

I kiddingly suggested he write to you. And he did. You told him to offer his services to some volunteer group, and you named a few. He called the Crippled Children's society, and they gave him the names of some handicapped children who needed transportation to and from the therapy clinic. He's never been happier.

Aren't men peculiar. They'll listen to advice from a stranger, but just let their wives tell them the same thing and they'll say she's off her rocker. Merry Christmas, Abby!

DORIS
CONFIDENTIAL TO "WILLING TO LEARN": This may seem like an over simplification, but if a marriage is to be successful, both husband and wife should remember to use these three phrases frequently: "I love you. I'm sorry. Thank you."

Santa and the Giant Fighter

By Lucrece Beale

Synopsis: When the Fairy Queen says Goko will be slain by the light of the moon the giant captures the moon and hides it in a cave with a dragon to guard it.

CHAPTER ELEVEN BILLY MEETS THE DRAGON

The cave where the moon was hidden was three miles beneath the ground. To reach it one had to travel through miles and miles of tunnel that wound round and round and round like a circular staircase leading to the center of the earth.

Billy the Giant Fighter started down the tunnel. It was very dark. He felt his way along the sides of the tunnel. It was dank and oozy and cold. Something dripped on his head and a cobweb drifted against his face.

He clutched his wooden sword and began to run. The tunnel grew smaller. Billy bent lower and lower until, first, he was on his hands and knees and, finally he was squirming a long on his stomach.

He wanted to shout for help but he could hardly breathe. Who would have heard him anyway? Santa had gone back to Santa Land and ahead of the boy he knew not what.

He shut his eyes and inched along pushing his wooden sword in front of him. When he opened his eyes he saw a dim blue light ahead. Moments later he came into a brightly lit cave. Fingers of ice dripped from the ceiling. Daggers of stones jutted up from the floor. A dozen tunnels led out of the cave. Billy did not know which one to take. He did not even know which one had led him there.

He sat down on a slimy rock pile and wondered what on earth to do. He had never felt so lost and alone.

But he was not really alone. Someone yanked at his sleeve and a whiskered old gnome said, "Are you the boy who fights giants?"

"How did you know?" cried Billy.

"All the Little Folk know," grunted the gnome. He told Billy there were many, many caves under the mountain and the gnomes had lived in them for a thousand years. But since Goko the giant had hidden the moon in the bottommost cave all the gnomes had fled because they were very afraid of the giant.

"I am the last to leave," said the old gnome. He sniffed a little. It was all very sad, he said, and he couldn't help crying because he did not see how a mere boy could slay the wicked giant even if he managed to set free the moon.

"I can try," said Billy bravely. "Will you show me the tunnel that leads to the bottommost cave?"

"Are you the boy who fights giants?" asked the old gnome.

"Not the tunnel!" exclaimed the gnome. "You must take the Gnome-Ga-Bucket. I have stayed here to show it to you."

He pulled a huge rock slab from the wall. There was a little closet and hanging in the closet was a silver bucket.

"Get in," said the gnome. "Push the button. It's like any other elevator."

Billy climbed in the bucket. There was a row of buttons on the handle. He pushed the bottom one.

The Go-Bucket went clinking, clackety-clackety, slam banging, smackety-rackety, whop, crump, bang, smash down through the earth and it wasn't like any other elevator in the whole wide world.

It finally came to a stop turned on its side and dumped Billy out in the dimly lighted

LBJ Lights National Yule Tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scene was hopeful and cheery: a choir singing, the lights on a 70-foot red fir burning brightly at dusk.

But the words from President Johnson were sober Thursday as he lit the national Christmas tree: "The months ahead will not be easy ones" in Vietnam, although, he said, aggression "has been blunted" and "peace with honor will surely follow."

A group of youths chanted "stop bombing Hanoi" as the President arrived for the ceremony and his second talk of the day on war and peace.

There was no interruption of his speech to the 5,000 persons at the park-like area south of the White House, however, as he said:

"The months ahead... will require great sacrifice and patience and understanding and tolerance from each of us."

Earlier, to 125 veterans wounded in Vietnam who had come from nearby hospitals as guests of Mrs. Johnson for a White House tour, the President said:

"I wish I could tell you that what you fought for, peace in the world, is just around the corner but there will be some long and difficult days ahead, days that will require patience, judgments and understanding."

A soldier's last letter home provided the text for this presidential talk. It was written by Army Lt. John F. Cochran to his wife Elaine and other folks at Highland, Calif. He died in action and was buried Nov. 2 in Arlington National Cemetery.

Writing by the light of a shaded electric lantern on a hilltop as he awaited a visit from the Viet Cong, Cochran asked himself why he was there and concluded that it was because he asked to be there.

The lieutenant said: "I know why I am here and why I couldn't be any other place. The reason is because I do believe that principle, basic principles are enough for a man to die for."

The Christmas I Remember Best

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Writer

Of all the Christmas eves I remember, the one that started off the coldest ended up the warmest.

My Dad put me to work that holiday season. He always believed in work and he wanted me to believe in it, too.

Besides, he thought, if anything can temper the easy, hot fudge sundae and double features of life of a teen-ager, it's probably work. And, his son might learn a little about himself, people and the elusiveness of a buck.

And that's how I came to be

Contractors Gather for Yule Session

Members of the Pickaway County Contractors Assn., their wives and guests gathered Thursday night at the L-K Restaurant for a Christmas dinner meeting.

A rundown on functions of a local newspaper was presented by Paul Smallwood, editor of The Herald. His comments focused on a brief history of journalism in this community, factors essential operation of a newspaper and the role news media play in a progressive locality.

Lawrence Burns, a state electrical inspector, and his wife were special guests. Burns has been conducting a weekly school here for electrician members of the association.

Robert Kenworthy, president of the organization, served as toastmaster and conducted a short business session. R. E. Nau handled dinner and program arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Nau and Mr. Kenworthy.

Gifts were presented to the ladies following the dinner.

Business Briefs

Circleville Mobile Homes Corp. and its vice president and general manager, Tom Elsea, were the topics of an article published in a nationally circulated magazine in November.

The story appeared in "Mobile Home Travel Trailer Dealer"—national trade publication for mobile home dealers.

Dealing with the mobile home park's conception in 1950, the article presents an up-to-date history of the local enterprise.

Accompanying the article are five pictures in and around the park, along with a photo of Elsea, general manager and vice president.

selling Christmas trees in a town in Michigan on my own lot—for his reasons, not mine.

He rented the lot from a friend, helped string the lights, and set me up in business with a truckload of trees, 20 bundles at about $1.50 apiece, a few trees to be bundled—his bargaining, his capital, his optimism, not mine.

From then on, the 12-hour days that became nights, the snow, the ice, the freezing rain that broke branches, the tar and pitch that stained hands, the wet shoes and socks, the desperation of unsold trees, these were all mine, not his. Or so I thought.

The first tree I sold was a handsome 12-foot, double-needle balsam. I had to run to the service station next door to get change for a $5 bill, and only charged $1.50. When I told Dad, he just shook his head and mumbled something about 12 generations of businessmen, and then this.

I learned why later, when I broke open the bundles and displayed the trees. One bundle in maybe three produced a really good tree. Some were so flat they could be nailed to a wall. Most had to be scrapped for branches. I had a lot of extra branches.

It took almost three days to create a small forest out of those bundles. For a good week, I was in that forest, desolately alone.

I thought of a dozen escapes. I'd run away. I'd set fire to the trees and join them as smoke. Dad said not to worry, it was early yet. But I went into that week 15 years old and came out 45.

He was right, of course. The next week was like a Cecil B. DeMille epic. My lot looked like Birnam Wood come to Dunsinane. Behind every tree was a customer. I hired two buddies to help. Seeing this, Dad bought another 150 bundles, against my will.

The people were as different as the trees they wanted—an old lady in a chauffeured limousine who brought a mansion-sized tree for $25, a kid who bought a scrap tree for his clubhouse, for a nickel. I spent more than an hour with a fussy, thin man who was buying a tree for a church, and less than five minutes with a family of five because the kids knew what they wanted.

And finally it was Christmas Eve, and I was alone again, and feeling sorry for the few trees that were left. I had cleared more than $300 for more than 190 hours of work. I was cold. Now I wanted to go home and trim our own tree.

And then a big tractor-trailer pulled up in front. The driver was on his way home to Toledo, Ohio, and was afraid the lots would close before he got there. He wanted a tree for youngsters who lived on his block. Their father had been killed in the war, and this was a skinny Christmas for them.

Two weeks in business had made me a cynic. I didn't really believe him. But I told him to take his pick. They wouldn't be worth anything tomorrow. I pointed out a well-shaped balsam, but he chose a scrawny four-footer. Afraid he had misunderstood, I repeated he could have any tree for nothing.

He thought for a moment. No, he'd take the little one, he said. They wouldn't believe he hadn't paid for it anyway, and, he said, they'd think he spent too much if he took the big one. Then he stuck out that big hand, and introduced himself. "If you get to Toledo," he said, "look me up." And he meant it, and the way he said it was like "God bless you."

And he drove off, and I kicked snow on the dead fire, and turned on the lights, and walked home wondering about my doubts, and Christmas, and how cold it was on the desert that other Christmas Eve, and the sudden warmth between strangers.

Local Baha'i Group
Lists Weekly Thought
There are certain people among us, followers of Jesus the Nazarene who were killed in Jerusalem. These people are truly imbued with moral principles which are the envy of philosophers. They believe in God and fear Him. They have hopes in His favors, therefore they shun all unworthy deeds and actions and incline to praise worthy ethics and morals.

"Day and night they strive that there deeds may be commendable and that they may contribute to the welfare of humanity; therefore each one of them is virtually a philosopher, for these people have attained unto that which is the essence and purport of philosophy. These people have praiseworthy morals. . . . Thus wrote Galen (a Greek physician and philosopher) in the second century A.D. "The vitality of men's belief in God is dying out in every land, nothing short of His wholesome medicine can ever restore it," wrote Baha'u'llah (founder of the Baha' World Faith) in the late 19th century A.D.

"Behold, your house is forsaken and desolate. For I tell you, you will not see me again, until you say, 'Blessed is he who comes in the name of the name of the Lord.'" Jesus the Nazarene not only described the first century A.D., but also foretold the present condition of the "Twentieth Century" and the coming of the "Divine Physician."

Subcommittee Hears King Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. condemned violence Thursday, called the black power slogan "very unfortunate," urged a guaranteed income to end poverty and said the Vietnam war should be stopped.

The Negro leader, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, testified before the Senate Government Operations subcommittee studying urban problems and poverty.

He said the civil rights struggle now has moved on to human rights issues not spelled out in the Constitution, such as the right to a decent home and a decent income. The achievement of these human rights, he said, is much more difficult because it involves a restructuring of society that will require expenditures of billions of dollars.

"It was easier to integrate public facilities and to gain the right to vote because they didn't cost money," King said.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought
"There are certain people among us, followers of Jesus the Nazarene who were killed in Jerusalem. These people are truly imbued with moral principles which are the envy of philosophers. They believe in God and fear Him. They have hopes in His favors, therefore they shun all unworthy deeds and actions and incline to praise worthy ethics and morals. "Day and night they strive that their deeds may be commendable and that they may contribute to the welfare of humanity; therefore each one of them is virtually a philosopher, for these people have attained unto that which is the essence and purport of philosophy. These people have praiseworthy morals . . ." Thus wrote Galen (a Greek physician and philosopher) in the second century A.D. "The vitality of men's belief in God is dying out in every land, nothing short of His wholesome medicine can ever restore it," wrote Baha'u'llah (founder of the Baha' World Faith) in the late 19th century A.D. "Behold, your house is forsaken and desolate. For I tell you, you will not see me again, until you say, 'Blessed is he who comes in the name of the name of the Lord.'" Jesus the Nazarene not only described the first century A.D., but also foretold the present condition of the "Twentieth Century" and the coming of the "Divine Physician."

Subcommittee Hears King Testimony
WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. condemned violence Thursday, called the black power slogan "very unfortunate," urged a guaranteed income to end poverty and said the Vietnam war should be stopped.

The Negro leader, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, testified before the Senate Government Operations subcommittee studying urban problems and poverty.

He said the civil rights struggle now has moved on to human rights issues not spelled out in the Constitution, such as the right to a decent home and a decent income.

The achievement of these human rights, he said, is much more difficult because it involves a restructuring of society that will require expenditures of billions of dollars.

"It was easier to integrate public facilities and to gain the right to vote because they didn't cost money," King said.

AN EYE ON THE WORLD

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The fascination of a globe . . . let the eye roam over the world map . . . notice the different countries and continents . . . try to imagine what life must be like in each of these places.

Yes, every spot on the globe has its particular need. Sometimes it is a need felt in that one place alone. Yet, in a sense, every place is the same, for all countries are made up of people. And all people have the same basic needs.

One of these needs is faith — faith in a God who also has an eye on our world — faith in a God who sustains us, and who gives meaning to time and eternity. Your own life has this need. You can answer that need by attending church, and discovering the strength and joy which come through regular worship.

Prophet of the Most High
GOD'S PREPARATIONS FOR THE COMING OF JESUS

Scripture—Luke 1.
By R. H. RAMSEY
WITH this lesson, we near the end of a series on those individuals who allowed themselves to be used by God as His spokesmen. Today's lesson deals with one of the chief of these spokesmen, John the Baptist, announcer of the Messiah, and we shall consider God's preparatory events in his life, and the lives of his parents, Elisabeth and Zacharias, which lead up to the birth of Jesus.
Both Zacharias, a priest, and Elisabeth, a kinswoman of the Virgin Mary, were elderly, well beyond the accepted child-bearing years. Nonetheless, an angel of the Lord appeared to Zacharias as he was offering sacrifices in the Temple and told him his wife would conceive and bear a son. The boy's name was to be John. The boy would be great in the sight of the Lord and filled with the Holy Ghost from his mother's womb, and it would be he who would fulfill the prophecies of Isaiah and Malachi by going before the Messiah to turn many in Israel to the Lord. Zacharias was angel told her of the pregnant condition of her kinswoman, Elisabeth.

GOLDEN TEXT
"Behold, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me: and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, even the messenger of the covenant whom ye delight in: behold, he shall come, saith the Lord of hosts."—Malachi 3:1.

In a few simple words, Mary submitted herself completely to the will of God. But soon after the angel left, she went to the hill country of Judea to visit Elisabeth and see for herself.
As soon as Mary arrived, two things happened: the babe leaped in the womb of Elisabeth, and she, filled with the Holy Spirit, uttered a song in praise of Mary. Joyfully and wholeheartedly she acknowledged that a much greater honor had been conferred on Mary than upon her. Mary's answer was to sing of her happiness with deep humility and holy reserve, in the beautiful, lyrical Magnificat.
Shortly after Mary's return to Nazareth, Elisabeth bore her son. The neighbors crowded into the house to rejoice with her over the son of her old age. On the eighth day the rite of circumcision was performed and the child was named. The neighbors expected him to be named Zacharias, after his father, but Elisabeth and Zacharias—writing on a tablet—insisted he would be named John.
With the naming, Zacharias' tongue was suddenly loosened and he spoke, praising the acts of God in another of the great songs of the Nativity, the Benedictus.
Zacharias' song, uttered under the inspiration of the Holy Ghost, praised God for again visiting His people, for His saving acts, for His salvation from the guilt and power of sin by means of a Savior of the house of David, that the people should be saved from their enemies to perform the mercies promised their fathers and to remember His holy covenant.
Our lesson material closes with Zacharias' charge to his son that, in fulfillment of the prophecy, he become the prophet of the Most High who would bring people to the right attitude through the power of God, proclaiming redemption, and remission of sins, going before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways.
John, whom we know as John the Baptist, remembered and fulfilled these responsibilities when he grew to manhood.

Church of England Richer This Year, But Its Clergy Underpaid as Usual

LONDON AP) — The Church of England is richer this year than ever before, yet many of its clergy are still as poor as church mice.
The Church Commissioners—three eminent laymen who handle the Church's investments—reported the other day that annual income was up by 6.5 per cent compared with 1965. That set total income at $59.5 million, three times the figure for 1948-49.
Such rapid growth was achieved by a bold decision which the commissioners took 18 years ago. They sold off fixed interest stocks and bought ordinary shares of industrial corporations. By the following March they had $14 million so invested. Today they own ordinary shares valued at more than $414 million.
That success story was achieved despite the fact that there were certain classes of stock in which as commissioners they could hardly invest. No Church money could go to distilleries or breweries, armament companies, entertainment enterprises, newspapers or tobacco groups.
Side by side with their flutter on the stock exchange, the commissioners looked over their property portfolio. The Church of England owns large slices of valuable real estate in London and elsewhere, including some bordering on slums. The fact that much of this property suffered heavy war damage provided the opportunity for the Church to divest itself of some and improve or develop the rest.

Some $128 million of property was sold and the proceeds used for a few shrewd purchases and improvement of what remained. Big schemes now under way include eight blocks of offices near St. Paul's Cathedral and development of a big estate on the edges of Hyde Park. And, as with the investments, the Church property income has nearly doubled.
Such wealth makes some Anglicans slightly unhappy. They are pleased that the Church of England is well-backed financially for lean times, but their consciences nag them.

Of course the money is needed to keep up the churches, pay the clergy, finance missionaries and help the poor. But should the Church take capital gains and get engaged in financial battles? And shouldn't more of what comes in reach the underpaid priest at parish level?
These moral questions are not answered by the Church Commissioners. But they make these points in their latest report:
Two-thirds of rectors and vicars in the Church of England are paid less than $3,080 a year. Their living accommodations—often in a rambling, draughty parsonage—are free.
Rectors and vicars, representing rather more than a quarter of the total, are paid less than $2,800. More than 4,000 rectors and vicars receive no contribution from their parishes toward the expenses of their work. That means they must pay for the parish mail, telephone calls and an automobile for getting around.

Vatican Paper Raps Bombing Of Hanoi

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican paper L'Osservatore Romano Thursday questioned the wisdom of U.S. bombing raids on the outskirts of Hanoi.
In a front-page editorial titled "The Pope and Vietnam" L'Osservatore directly questioned whether the raids would help create an atmosphere leading to the extension of year-end truces asked by Pope Paul VI.
Speaking of the Pope's Dec. 8 appeal, in which the head of the Roman Catholic Church urged that the cease fires be extended into negotiations for peace, the editorial said that conditions for a prolonged truce existed.
"But," added the editorial, "do more intense aerial bombings ever closer to Hanoi contribute to formation of a propitious climate for a longer suspension of hostilities?"

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, Dec. 16, the 350th day of 1966. There are 15 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1773, a band of mine disguised as Indians boarded the ship Dartmouth in Boston Harbor. They seized 342 chests of tea and tossed them into the sea. The Boston Tea Party, as the incident is known, clinaxed Colonists' fight against taxes levied by the British Parliament.
On this date:
In 1631, Mt. Vesuvius in Italy erupted taking the lives of some 18,600 persons.
In 1773, composer Geraman Ludwig von Beethoven, was born.
In 1949, Dr. Sukarno was elected the first president of the United States of Indonesia.
In 1951, a plane crashed in Elizabeth, N.J., killing 56 passengers on board. It was the first of three crashes in that city within 58 days. In all, 199 persons lost their lives in the three wrecks.
Five years ago — President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy, on a weekend Latin-American tour, left San Juan and flew off to Caracas, Venezuela, where they were greeted by President Romulo Betancourt and thousands of cheering Venezuelans.

A water softener is a remarkable appliance, but buying it the wrong way can be a big mistake!

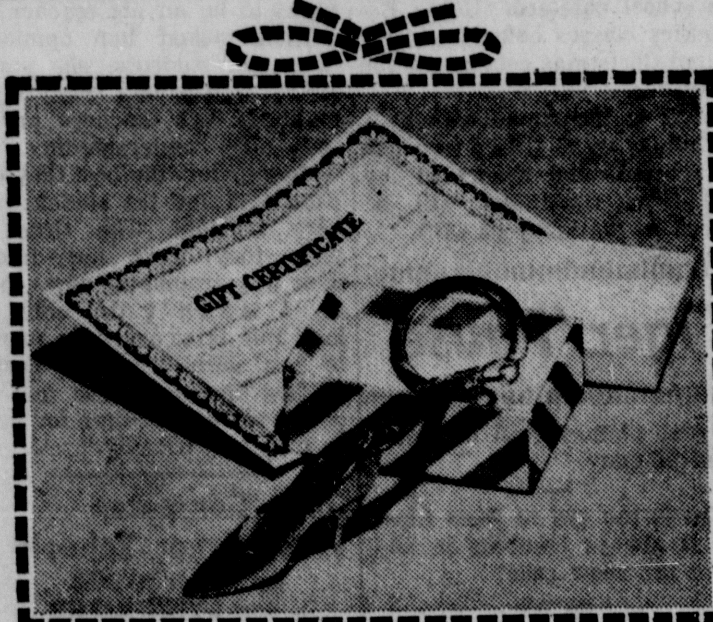

Some people make a serious mistake when buying a water softener. They go out and shop for a "bargain." But a water softener happens to be the one major appliance which must be bought from a real specialist. Just about anyone can "sell" you a softener, of course. But it takes a specialist to do the job right, or you might end up wishing you'd never bought at all!

Dougherty's Offers All These Advantages . . . See If They Don't Make Sense:

1. We're soft water specialists, engineer trained to analyze your water and to apply that analysis to your special requirements.
2. We can custom-fit you with a softener that will meet your particular needs.
3. We install your softener for much better operation and true economy.
4. As a Lindsay dealer we have to please you to stay in business. Water softening is our full-time business.
5. We give you person to person service. If we can't solve your problem we'll tell you so.
6. We give you factory authorized parts and service.
7. Lindsay has beautiful fiberglass tanks which carry a lifetime guarantee.
8. You get bonded warranty on parts and service, and Lindsay has the Good Housekeeping Seal for standard of quality.

GOD'S PREPARATIONS FOR THE COMING OF JESUS

Scripture—Luke 1.

By R. H. RAMSEY

WITH this lesson, we near the end of a series on those individuals who allowed themselves to be used by God as His spokesmen. Today's lesson deals with one of the chief of these spokesmen, John the Baptist, announcer of the Messiah, and we shall consider God's preparatory events in his life, and the lives of his parents, Elisabeth and Zacharias, which lead up to the birth of Jesus.

Both Zacharias, a priest, and Elisabeth, a kinswoman of the Virgin Mary, were elderly, well beyond the accepted child-bearing years. Nonetheless, an angel of the Lord appeared to Zacharias as he was offering sacrifices in the Temple and told him his wife would conceive and bear a son. The boy's name was to be John, he would be great in the sight of the Lord and filled with the Holy Ghost from his mother's womb, and it would be he who would fulfill the prophecies of Isaiah and Malachi by going before the Messiah to turn many in Israel to the Lord. Zacharias was skeptical, and the angel announced that, because he doubted the divine announcement, he would be punished with temporary speechlessness "until the day that all these things shall be performed."

"Behold, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me; and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to the temple, even the messenger of the covenant whom ye delight in: behold, he shall come, saith the Lord of hosts."—Malachi 3:1.

About six months later, the Lord sent the angel to Nazareth, in Galilee, to a young girl, named Mary, who was engaged to Joseph, a carpenter. The angel's sudden appearance and statement that she had found favor with the Lord apparently frightened her, for the angel hastened to reassure her, and then revealed that she would conceive and bear a son and name him Jesus. The fact that the prophecy was made in such a positive way can only indicate its infallibility through divine foreknowledge and divine purpose.

The child would be great, the angel told her, the Son of the Most High, and would be given the throne of David, would reign over the house of Jacob forever, and there would be no end to his kingdom.

To comfort and reassure Mary, and also as a token of the omnipotence of God, the

Church of England Richer This Year, But Its Clergy Underpaid as Usual

LONDON AP) — The Church of England is richer this year than ever before, yet many of its clergy are still as poor as church mice.

The Church Commissioners—three eminent laymen who handle the Church's investments—reported the other day that annual income was up by 6.5 per cent compared with 1965. That set total income at $59.5 million, three times the figure for 1948.

Such rapid growth was achieved by a bold decision which the commissioners took 18 years ago. They sold off fixed interest stocks and bought ordinary shares of industrial corporations. By the following March they had $14 million so invested. Today they own ordinary shares valued at more than $414 million.

That success story was achieved despite the fact that there were certain classes of stock in which as commissioners they could hardly invest. No Church money could go to distilleries or breweries, armament companies, entertainment enterprises, newspapers or tobacco groups.

Side by side with their flutter on the stock exchange, the commissioners looked over their property portfolio. The Church of England owns large slices of valuable real estate in London and elsewhere, including some bordering on slums. The fact that much of this property suffered heavy war damage provided the opportunity for the Church to divest itself of some and improve or develop the rest.

Some $128 million of property was sold and the proceeds used for a few shrewd purchases and improvement of what remained. Big schemes now under way include eight blocks of offices near St. Paul's Cathedral and development of a big estate on the edges of Hyde Park. And, as with the investments, the Church property income has nearly doubled.

Such wealth makes some Anglicans slightly unhappy. They are pleased that the Church of England is well-backed financially for lean times, but their consciences nag them.

Of course the money is needed to keep up the churches, pay the clergy, finance missionaries and help the poor. But should the Church take capital gains and get engaged in financial battles? And shouldn't more of what comes in reach the underpaid priest at parish level?

These moral questions are not answered by the Church Commissioners. But they make these points in their latest report:

Two-thirds of rectors and vicars in the Church of England are paid less than $3,080 a year. Their living accommodations—often in a rambling, draughty parsonage—are free.

Rectors and vicars, representing rather more than a quarter of the total, are paid less than $2,800. More than 4,000 rectors and vicars receive no contribution from their parishes toward the expenses of their work. That means they must pay for the parish mail, telephone calls and an automobile for getting around.

Vatican Paper Raps Bombing Of Hanoi

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican paper L'Osservatore Romano Thursday questioned the wisdom of U.S. bombing raids on the outskirts of Hanoi.

In a front-page editorial titled "The Pope and Vietnam" L'Osservatore directly questioned whether the raids would help create an atmosphere leading to the extension of yearned truces asked by Pope Paul VI.

Speaking of the Pope's Dec. 8 appeal, in which the head of the Roman Catholic Church urged that the cease fires be extended into negotiations for peace, the editorial said that conditions for a prolonged truce existed.

"But," added the editorial, "do more intense aerial bombings ever closer to Hanoi contribute to formation of a propitious climate for a longer suspension of hostilities?"

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Dec. 16, the 350th day of 1966. There are 15 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1773, a band of mine disguised as Indians boarded the ship Dartmouth in Boston Harbor. They seized 342 chests of tea and tossed them into the sea. The Boston Tea Party, as the incident is known, climaxed Colonists' fight against taxes levied by the British Parliament.

On this date: In 1631, Mt. Vesuvius in Italy erupted taking the lives of some 18,000 persons.

In 1773, composer Geraman Ludwig von Beethoven, was born.

In 1949, Dr. Sukarno was elected the first president of the United States of Indonesia.

In 1981, a plane crashed in Elizabeth, N.J., killing 56 passengers on board. It was the first of three crashes in that city within 58 days. In all, 199 persons lost their lives in the three wrecks.

CHS Club News

By SANDY TREGO and VICKI TRACY GAA

Senior GAA is selling Circleville Tiger Sweat Shirts! Buy one for Christmas!

KEY CLUB

Key Club Christmas plans include caroling at several rest homes; gifts to a mental hospital in Columbus; Christmas cards to the little girl they adopted in India; and gathering material for Christmas baskets. Club members also plan to be "big brothers" at the next home game by taking little boys to the game.

HI-Y CLUB

Circleville HI-Y is planning a food drive. All food that is obtained will be used for Christmas baskets. All contributions will be appreciated.

SOPHOMORE SOS

The Sophomore SOS girls are holding a bake sale next Saturday. Sales will start at nine o'clock at Sears, W. Main St. and will last until everything is sold.

SENIOR SOS

The date for the annual Sweetheart Dance as announced last week is Feb. 18, 1967.

Plans are underway for furnishing a Christmas basket to a family in the Circleville area.

DRAMA CLUB

DECA

Calendar sales went so well that more have been ordered and will be ready to sell this week. Christmas wreaths and crosses are selling faster than they are made, but 11 those who have ordered them can pick them up Monday.

Judy Smith and Eddy Nungesser attended the club meeting at Miami Trace Dec. 7. Washington C. H. and Greenfield chapters also attended.

SCIENCE CLUB

Nuclei Science Club visited the Picway Power Plant on Dec. 6. The club will hold its Christmas Party next Thursday evening.

Grid Managers Will Graduate

By HERB AMEY AND JACK WHITE

Four senior managers who will be leaving the CHS football team are Darryl Bass, Mike Merriman, Ed Yates and Terry Martin. These boys know as much as the players do about football.

Darryl Bass, son of Mrs. Bernadette Bass, 527 S. Scioto St., contracted a case of rheumatic fever which eliminated him from active participation in football. He remained with the team, however, serving as a manager. He lettered last year at center.

Darryl was in charge of setting up equipment before practice. On game nights he assisted in padding up players. Serving also as trainer, Darryl says he "bandaged guys up that got hurt and on Friday nights before the game, taped ankles."

Business school is on Darryl's schedule for after graduation activities.

Mike Merriman was publicity manager for the Tigers the past two years. He is the son of Mrs. Annette Merriman, 881 Atwater Ave. and Neil Merriman, E. Main.

In addition to keeping performance charts, Mike announced game scores and statistics to local news media.

Mike is enrolled in the general course at CHS and plans to study architecture at Ohio State University following graduation.

Senior manager Ed Yates hails from Henton, W. Va. Ed resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Yates, 226 Eastmoor Ave.

Ed, in the classical course, plans to attend college after graduation. He is also very interested in baseball.

He feels the discipline of football will help him in future years.

Terry Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Martin, 660 Garden Parkway, is the fourth senior manager.

An injury kept Terry out of action all season, but he wished to remain with the team. His specific training jobs were to "take care of the coach and look after the many aches of the players."

In the college prep course, Terry plans to enter college for a phys ed major upon graduation in June.

CHS Annual Staff has sold 600 annuals, which is the most ever sold.

Clubs Give Party for Youngsters

By VELDA GALLION

First and second grade Christmas Party was originated in the 1940's by the Senior SOS and other clubs soon joined in promoting the party. The cost is divided equally among the clubs.

This year's party was held in the CHS cafeteria today with approximately 75 children attending.

The president and vice president of each club and five officers helped with each of the afternoon parties.

Participating clubs were English Merit Society, Sophomore SOS, Senior GAA, Hi-Y, Key Club, Stogee, and Curtain Callers. The Home Ec department lent a great hand by baking cookies.

This worthwhile project of CHS students is an excellent way to introduce the art of giving at the opening of the holiday season.

After graduation Mr. Beavers attended Ohio University where he majored in math and minor in history and government.

During college he was active in Inter-varsity Christian Fellowship, Young Republicans Club, Speech Discussion Team and was secretary to Lincoln Hall Dorm Council. He is now the adviser to the Circleville High School Key Club.

Mr. Beavers was valedictorian at Logan Elm, and was on Dean's list at Ohio University. When asked why he became a teacher he replied: "I became a teacher in order to help to

Yule Season Draws Near

By LYNN KIFER

Christmas time is drawing near and many reminder of Yuletide season are popping up at CHS.

In the cafeteria, the staff has added gay Christmas arrangements to the serving line counters and familiar Christmas carols seranade the students during lunch period.

The bulletin board in the library has depicted Christmas with Linus and Snoopy. Christmas cards made by the office practice girls festoon the bulletin board in the commercial department. Plans for more decorations are being made and will be completed before long.

The DECA club has joined in the Christmas spirit by making Christmas wreaths and crosses from IBM cards. These colorful decorations are now on sale at the high school.

The music department of CHS will add to the enjoyment of the Christmas season by presenting a vespers program Sunday, Dec. 18, in the auditorium. They will decorate the stage with Christmas greenery to augment the beauty of the program.

Making Christmas more enjoyable and memorable for others is the aim of the combined clubs of CHS. They held a Children's Christmas Party today, in the school cafeteria. Home Economics classes baked and decorated Christmas cookies for the party.

What is Christmas without a Christmas tree? CHS's tree will be erected and decorated by the Stogee Club and will be placed in the lobby of CHS.

Senior pictures will be distributed Monday.

Dec. 7, the Deca Club started selling Christmas decorations.

Steve McGinnis holds the world's record for keeping his class ring the longest, "five minutes."

Seventy pages have already been sent in for the annual.

There will be 208 pages in the annual.

The CHS Christmas Assembly will be Dec. 21, in the auditorium.

Teacher of the Week

DAVID BEAVERS

By LOU TOLLIVER

"As a new teacher here at CHS, I feel the excellent new high school building and the fine caliber of students make teaching at CHS a pleasure. I feel that today's students are more intelligent than the students were a few years ago."

David Beavers, who teaches trigonometry and Algebra I and II, is this edition's teacher of the week. He lives in Washington Twp.

He was graduated from Logan Elm High school in 1952 where he was active in National Honor Society, Junior Classical League, Latin Club, American Club, Scholarship Team Skandia (annual staff), and library. He was also Pickaway County National Honor Society officer and sophomore class officer.

After graduation Mr. Beavers attended Ohio University where he majored in math and minor in history and government. During college he was active in Inter-varsity Christian Fellowship, Young Republicans Club, Speech Discussion Team and was secretary to Lincoln Hall Dorm Council. He is now the adviser to the Circleville High School Key Club.

Mr. Beavers was valedictorian at Logan Elm, and was on Dean's list at Ohio University. When asked why he became a teacher he replied: "I became a teacher in order to help to

New Students Interviewed

By RUTH CRAWFORD

This week Helen Lovelace has been chosen as the student of the week.

Helen resides at 420 Brown St. with her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Lovelace and her brother and sisters, Terry, Janie, and twins, Sandra, and Sharon.

Before coming to CHS Helen lived 15 years in New York State. She attended Harkersville, Oakdale School during her elementary and Junior high years. In Pennsylvania she attended Athens High School.

While living in New York State she was in the 4-H Club for five years and on the school paper, "Teagons".

Helen is enrolled in the college prep course and is active in the CHS band. Her hobbies are art work, playing the piano and sewing. In the future Helen plans to be an art teacher.

When asked her opinion of CHS and students, she stated, "First, you have a lovely school building. The teachers are all very nice, understanding, and willing to help the best they can. Finally, I find the student body very friendly. The first few days they were busy finding their way around the new school, so, I wasn't the only one lost! But, later everyone seemed to just unroll the red carpet. So, I'd like to thank the student body at this time for being so nice and friendly."

GAA Competes With Other Schools

By ANNE JOYCE and LYNN KIFER

The Senior GAA held a Sports Day Dec. 10 in the CHS gym. Girls from Logan Elm and Teays Valley provided competition for the sports activities.

After registration and a breakfast of donuts and milk the girls played basketball and volleyball. In basketball Teays Valley was victorious over Logan Elm and in the second game Circleville beat Teays Valley. Logan Elm and Teays Valley both came out on top in volleyball.

Lunch was at 11:30 in the cafeteria with each girl bringing her own lunch. After lunch each school sang their fight song and alma mater.

Afternoon consisted of relays with such events as the baton relay, elephant walk and the basketball relay.

day's students obtain the type of education that will enable them to be tomorrow's leaders."

Mr. Beavers is a member of the Church of Christ in Christian Union, where he teaches a Sunday School class.

His main hobby is oil painting. He likes politics, math and the Cincinnati Reds. He dislikes complacency among students.

The fast and furious sport of Basketball is with us again, and with it, also, come the cheers and screams and over all encouragement of the crowd. Everyone, when an official makes a close call seems to have a different opinion on the call and how can they voice their opinion?

There seems to be many ways in which this can be done: booing, hissing and the usual moose - call. But does this really accomplish anything or benefit the team? An official is out on the court to do a job and he does it well, under the circumstances. Anyone who feels they could do a better job, should look at it from the official's viewpoint.

When the crowd shows this kind of behavior at a game, they are also showing the incapability of restraining their emotions. A basketball game is supposed to be an enjoyable and exciting pastime, but there are a few people who feel differently about it.

If everyone will do their part and just back the team with cheers and encouragement, they will appreciate the fine playing of the team members a lot more.

Vesper Service Planned Sunday

By JOYCE VALENTINE

The CHS choir, girls' ensemble and band will combine to present a Vesper Service to the public beginning 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the high school auditorium.

The choir, directed by Truman Eberly, will open the service with a collection of five Christmas carols.

Following the choir's performance the girls' ensemble, composed of Melissa Willoughby, Carol Spangler, Susan Demjen, Kathy Fuller, Marcia Brehmer, Star Tipton and Jeanelle West accompanied on the piano by Patty Painter, will sing two unusual Christmas selections. The selections feature a soprano solo by Melissa Willoughby.

The choir will then sing five more carols, followed by selections from the ensemble.

The concert band, under the leadership of George Marshall will then present a collection of two chorales and three carols, closing with Dillon's "Green-sleeves."

The ensemble and choir will close the service.

Hi-Y Plans Sports Night

By LARRY DEAN

The Circleville High School Hi-Y Club is sponsoring a "Sports Recreation Night" this Saturday in the new CHS gym. Doors will open at 7:30 p. m. and admission is $.50 per person. All students of the Junior and Senior High Schools are invited to attend. Activities of all kinds are planned, so make it a point to drop in.

The CHS library carries 54 different magazines.

Students! You better be on your best behavior because Santa Claus is watching you!

Girls! Have you remembered to order your phys ed suit yet?

Views Expressed On Double Plan

By JANIE WISE AND ANNE JOYCE

Inquiring reporters asked Paul Sarchet, principal, about holding baccalaureate and commencement on the same day. "It will be to the benefit of the graduate and an advantage to the out-of-town guests," he replied.

Replies varied when the question was asked CHS Seniors. Here are but a few.

Mike Woodward — "It sounds like a good idea to me. Not only will the seniors have to come on just one day, but relatives or friends who live quite a distance away will be able to attend both ceremonies."

Joe Winner — "Baccalaureate and Commencement on the same day is a good idea. It gives relatives a chance to take one day to attend both ceremonies, and it will allow the graduates to get it over with all in one day."

Marsha Brobst — "It gets the whole thing over with in one day, but after anticipating baccalaureate and graduation for so long, it seems like a big let-down when they go by so fast."

Mary Anne Yates — "After all these years it seems funny that our class will graduate this spring. I'm proud we'll be the first ones out of the new school, but I'm also sorry that both the baccalaureate and commencement exercises will be crowded into the same day. It seems to take away some of the importance from each one."

Jim Noel — "I think it's a good idea because you don't have a messed up week of practice between the two. It saves a lot of time and preparation in other ways plus accommodating out-of-town guests. It may take part of the fun out of graduating but it won't kill anyone."

John Hang — "I'm against having baccalaureate and commencement on the same day. We only graduate once and putting these two together would crowd a lot into one day. It would distract from the importance of baccalaureate by placing all the emphasis on commencement."

Lynn Kifer — "Although this arrangement will accommodate out-of-town guests and make matters easier for the administration, I feel it will take away a lot of the anticipation and excitement for seniors."

Joyce Carter — "I think it is a good idea, but it will be a new trend in the history of graduation exercises for CHS. Things will be quickly done this year but most likely the CHS seniors won't forget what was done on that day."

Greg Withers — "I am not in favor of it. You only graduate once so I say spread it out; and I don't relish the idea of graduation on Sunday when you could still be celebrating on Saturday."

CHS sweatshirts went on sale last Friday.

Preparing Food for 500 Is No Easy Task at CHS

By SANDY TREGO AND KAREN GRIFFEY

Preparing food for 500 hungry students often proves to be a difficult task, but the new equipment in the CHS cafeteria has aided in solving most of the problems which arise.

All the equipment in the cafeteria is new as the whole kitchen is new, but the most outstanding pieces of equipment are the steam and pressure cookers, the refrigerator and freezer, the mixer and the steam tables. Also on the list are the 41 new tables and 328 chairs.

How much food do the cooks prepare every day? For a meal consisting of a vegetable, salad, meat, bread, butter and milk, five cases of vegetables, 90 pounds of cabbage, four gallons of mayonnaise, one gallon of vinegar, 75-100 pounds of meat, 50 pounds of bread, eight to nine pounds of butter, and 600 bottles of milk are used.

The head cook in the CHS cafeteria is Mary White. The members of her staff include Elouise Starkey, Dorothy Winnell, Melva Kasler, and Anna Louise Kair. Students working in the cafeteria are Karen Trego, Ginger White, Joyce Sawyer, Mike Hardesty, Richard Tenn, Sally Smith, Vicki Smith, Jackie Murray, Sonnie Stone, Tom Smallwood, Diane Rositor, David Miller, Barbara Ogan, Bob Kiger, Dan Hettinger, Chuck Walisa, Audry Ford, Calvin Hicks, Mike Brumfield, Jeff Miller and Larry Collins.

Clubs Give Party for Youngsters

By VELDA GALLION

First and second grade Christmas Party was originated in the 1940's by the Senior SOS and other clubs soon joined in promoting the party. The cost is divided equally among the clubs.

This year's party was held in the CHS cafeteria today with approximately 75 children attending.

Participating clubs were English Merit Society, Sophomore SOS, Senior GAA, Hi-Y, Key Club, Stogie, and Curtain Callers. The Home Ec department lent a great hand by baking cookies.

This worthwhile project of CHS students is an excellent way to introduce the art of giving at the opening of the holiday season.

Darryl Bass, son of Mrs. Bernadette Bass, 527 S. Scioto St., contracted a case of rheumatic fever which eliminated him from active participation in football. He remained with the team, however, serving as a manager. He lettered last year at center.

Darryl was in charge of setting up equipment before practice. On game nights he assisted in padding up players.

Serving also as trainer, Darryl says he "bandaged guys up that got hurt and on Friday nights before the game, taped ankles."

Business school is on Darryl's schedule for after graduation activities.

Mike Merriman was publicity manager for the Tigers the past two years. He is the son of Mrs. Annette Merriman, 881 Atwater Ave. and Neil Merriman, E. Main.

In addition to keeping performance charts, Mike announced game scores and statistics to local news media.

Senior manager Ed Yates hails from Henton, W. Va. Ed resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Yates, 226 Eastmoor Ave.

Ed, in the classical course, plans to attend college after graduation. He is also very interested in baseball.

He feels the discipline of football will help him in future years.

Terry Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Martin, 660 Garden Parkway, is the fourth senior manager.

An injury kept Terry out of action all season, but he wished to remain with the team. His specific training jobs were to "take care of the coach and look after the many aches of the players."

In the college prep course, Terry plans to enter college for a physics major upon graduation in June.

Exercise Aids In Curbing Heart Ailment

By DENISE JACKSON

"Why is physical education a four-year course at CHS? This question is in the minds of many juniors and sophomores at schedule time each year. Many feel that the time spent in physical education could be put to better use in a study hall."

The state requires that a student have 17 credits to graduate, one of which must be in physical education. Still, a possible solution could be to offer 1/2 credit for each year instead of 1/4.

However there are many obvious reasons for having a four-year program. First, for many students this is the only time they participate in a sport of physical activity. Second, after graduation many people never exercise again. This is the main cause of heart attacks or other heart ailments. After a long period without exercise extra strain and pressure is placed on the heart for such activities as shoveling snow.

So maybe this extra time spent in physical education now, will pay off later in our lives.

Three Coaches Appointed at Miami Trace

WASHINGTON C. H. — The Fayette County Board of Education has filled three Miami Trace head coaching positions.

John Beckley has been assigned as head baseball mentor, filling the spot formerly held by Gordon McCarty. McCarty, who holds a continuing teachers contract at Miami Trace, was relieved of his coaching duties by a 3-2 vote of the board.

Beckley is the head grid coach at Miami Trace.

In other action, Charles Wallace was named head wrestling and track coach. Although Miami Trace does not currently have a varsity wrestling program, tentative plans call for athletes in the school to compete in the sport next year.

Bass Hailed For Comeback

Rams' ? Mark Wins AP Award

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Bass was strictly a question mark when the Los Angeles Rams headed into the season. A knee operation after the 1964 season and assorted ailments limited his net yardage last year to 549.

This disappointing performance, far off his peak year of 1,633 yards in 1962, made Bass an "iffy" proposition when new Coach George Allen took over this year.

Allen adopted a new strategy for Bass. Instead of wearing him out in the preseason exhibition games, he let Bass sit it out with a minor injury. When he turned Bass loose, he was ready to go.

Going into the last game of the season against Green Bay Sunday, Bass already had gained 1,041 yards rushing and was only 81 yards behind the leader, Leroy Kelly of Cleveland.

The fine year by the former University of Pacific athlete earned Bass today The Associated Press Comeback of the Year award from a panel of sports writers and sportscasters, three from each of the 15 league cities.

Bass received 10 votes and nobody else more than four in the balloting because several panel members did not vote in this category.

"The only thing on my mind when I'm carrying the ball is that I should never be tackled," said Bass earlier in the season. He has been tackled plenty but he always keeps slamming back to try for more the next time.

The 5-foot-10, 205-pound Bass is a seven-year man in pro football.

Dallas, Boston Should Win in Major Pro Grid Tilts

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Dallas and Boston should wrap up the only pro football title berths still undecided in this final weekend of play and complete the pairings for the two Jan. 1 championship games.

This is the last go-around for the old hand picker. Unless otherwise indicated, all games are Sunday.

NFL

St. Louis 17, Cleveland 14 (Saturday) — Browns are favored but they looked bad against Eagles last week. Cards must win and then hope for a miracle at New York Sunday.

Dallas 42, New York 21 — Cowboys lead league in scoring. Giants have given up more points than any team in NFL history. Dallas romped 52-7 on Sept. 18 when Don Meredith hit with five TD passes. Giants have lost seven straight.

San Francisco 24, Baltimore 21 — The 49ers have been coming on strong. Colts may be way down there after that heart-breaking loss to Green Bay. Could mean second place and a trip to Miami for the winner.

Los Angeles 17, Green Bay 14 — Packers already in but Vince Lombardi will do best to keep them on toes. Bart Starr doubtful. Rams big four on a rampage.

Minnesota 21, Chicago 17 — Bears won first game 13-10 on Rudy Bukich pass but they were ruined by 49ers last week while Vikings ended four-game skid by beating Detroit. Vikes have to much offense if they can handle Gale Sayers.

Five Bucks Land On All-Academic

CHICAGO (AP) — Center Ray Pryor of Ohio State, a repeater from last year, and four other Buckeye players have landed places on the Big Ten's 14th All-Academic Football Team for 1966.

Another Buckeye selected for the offensive unit was Dave Foley, guard. On the defensive team are Ohio State's Dick Himes, tackle; Mark Stier, linebacker; and Tom Portsmouth, safety.

West Virginia and Penn State first met on the football field in 1904.

Washington 35, Philadelphia 21 — Eagles have chance for Playoff Bowl but lost Timmy Brown in win over Cleveland. Sonny Jurgensen red hot against Dallas and Redskins have won five of their last six from Eagles, including Oct. 30 games 27-13.

Pittsburgh 24, Atlanta 14 — Steelers' offense improved with return of Bill Nelsen. Falcons getting tougher on defense but attack inconsistent.

AFL

Boston 24, New York 17 (Saturday) — Pats nail down Eastern Division crown despite vulnerability to Joe Namath's passing. Jets have no ground game, must go to air. Jim Nance gives Pats edge. They played 24-24 tie Oct. 2.

Buffalo 24, Denver 14 — It may be all over for Bills before they get a chance to play again. If Pats win Saturday they are dead. Buffalo has too much class for Broncos, who have won two of last three.

Miami 21, Houston 20 — Flip a coin Dolphins can get out of cellar with win. Miami won first game 20-13.

San Diego 21, Kansas City 17 — Final tune-up for Chiefs, who were stale last week after bye. Chargers need a win for home folks. Kansas City won earlier 24-14.

Otterbein Honors 3 Area Athletes

Three Circleville area student athletes attending Otterbein College have been presented with varsity awards for the 1966 football and cross country seasons.

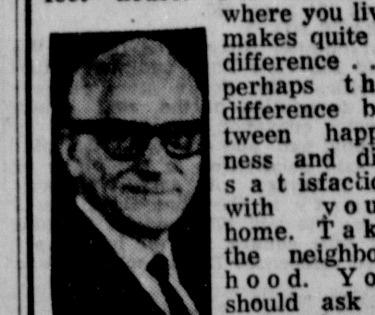

Freshman end Rich Rawlins was awarded varsity numerals for his play with the Cardinal football team during the recent campaign. Rawlins is a June graduate of Logan Elm High.

Cross country letters were presented freshmen Bob Adkins, a Culver Military Academy and Circleville High alumnus, and Jim Garrett, a graduate of Westfall High.

YOUR MONEY

By CHET MCKENZIE

There's a lot more to buying a home than finding the perfect house.

For instance, where you live makes quite a difference... perhaps the difference between happiness and dissatisfaction with your home. Take the neighborhood. You should ask if it is going up or down... declining or appreciating in value. Are the houses nearby well cared for? Is there shopping conveniently close... and transportation? How about schools for the children, now and in the future? Is the location in the heart of town or the suburbs, and which would you really like better?

These are just a few of the questions you need to answer. We can help you with many of your problems about a home purchase, and give you a sound estimate on how much you can (and should) finance. Because so large a part of our business is arranging home financing, we can help you avoid mistakes. When you do find the right home in the right location, we can arrange financing to suit your needs. Stop in and talk it over.

Three Coaches Appointed at Miami Trace

WASHINGTON C. H. — The Fayette County Board of Education has filled three Miami Trace head coaching positions.

John Beckley has been assigned as head baseball mentor, filling the spot formerly held by Gordon McCarty. McCarty, who holds a continuing teachers contract at Miami Trace, was relieved of his coaching duties by a 3-2 vote of the board.

Beckley is the head grid coach at Miami Trace.

In other action, Charles Wallace was named head wrestling and track coach. Although Miami Trace does not currently have a varsity grappling program, tentative plans call for athletes in the school to compete in the sport next year.

Bass Hailed For Comeback

Rams' ? Mark Wins AP Award

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Bass was strictly a question mark when the Los Angeles Rams headed into the season. A knee operation after the 1964 season and assorted ailments limited his net yardage last year to 549.

This disappointing performance, far off his peak year of 1,633 yards in 1962, made Bass an "iffy" proposition when new Coach George Allen took over this year.

Allen adopted a new strategy for Bass. Instead of wearing him out in the preseason exhibition games, he let Bass sit it out with a minor injury. When he turned Bass loose, he was ready to go.

Going into the last game of the season against Green Bay Sunday, Bass already had gained 1,041 yards rushing and was only 81 yards behind the leader, Leroy Kelly of Cleveland.

The fine year by the former University of Pacific athlete earned Bass today The Associated Press Comeback of the Year award from a panel of sports writers and sportscasters, three from each of the 15 league cities.

Bass received 10 votes and nobody else more than four in the balloting because several panel members did not vote in this category.

"The only thing on my mind when I'm carrying the ball is that I should never be tackled," said Bass earlier in the season. He has been tackled plenty but he always keeps slamming back to try for more the next time.

The 5-foot-10, 205-pound Bass is a seven-year man in pro football.

Dodgers Acquire Reliever Bob Lee

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers don't expect to solve their pitching problem overnight—but there's plenty of relief in sight.

The Dodgers, whose starting staff was depleted by the retirement of Sandy Koufax last month, strengthened their already deep bullpen Thursday by swapping southpaw Nick Wilhite to the California Angels for relief specialist Bob Lee.

Another veteran reliever, 36-year-old Dick Hall, went to the Philadelphia Phillies for cash plus a player to be named later. The Cincinnati Reds traded southpaw pitcher Jim O'Toole to the Chicago White Sox for outfielder Floyd Robinson just before the Thursday midnight deadline on interleague deals.

The Dodgers' acquisition of Lee, a 29-year-old right-hander who appeared in 61 games for California last season, gives them four solid relievers. Phil Regan, Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller are the holdovers.

The National League champions said Lee's presence in the bullpen would free Miller to bid for the vacant spot in the starting rotation. Lee was 5-4 with a 2.75 earned run average for the Angels in 1966.

Wilhite, 25, posted a 10-12 record, with a 3.14 ERA, for the Dodgers' Spokane farm club and was 0-0 with a 2.25 ERA in six appearances for Los Angeles. He's expected to get a starting shot with the Angels.

O'Toole was a big winner for the Reds until two seasons ago when he slumped badly. In 1966, the 29-year-old southpaw had a 5-7 won-lost record with a 3.55 ERA.

In eight seasons with the Reds, O'Toole's lifetime mark is 94-81. His best season was 1961 when he won 19 and lost nine.

The 30-year-old Robinson was one of the American League's steadiest hitters until he tailed off in 1965. This past season he batted only .237.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds said today they have received two pitchers from the Boston Red Sox, completing an earlier deal in which the Reds sent pitcher Hank Fischer to Boston.

The Reds received Roland Sheldon, a right-hander, and Dick Stigman, a southpaw. Sheldon also played with Kansas City in 1966 and had an over-all record of 5-13. Stigman was 2-1.

The Reds sent Fischer to the Red Sox before the end of the season. Fischer was 0-6 for the Reds. He was acquired by Cincinnati from the Atlanta Braves.

'Cats Win By Whisker

Cincinnati, Dayton Pace Ohio Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those clawtips clutching the bottom, but prized, spot in the Top Ten of major college basketball belong to Cincinnati's Bearcats.

Those fresh gray hairs belong to Bearcat Coach Tay Baker, whose squad kept its unbeaten slate intact by an early sale of the third game running—this time 59-58 at Wake Forest Thursday night.

The two games before that, the now 4-0 'Cats had to go overtime to quell Wisconsin and Miami of Ohio and hold No. 10 ratings in The Associated Press poll.

The latest squeaker may or may not keep them there.

Dayton's Flyers, 5-0 after soaring over helpless Tampe 111-64 Thursday night, make their bid for the Top Ten at Louisville, No. 3, Saturday.

If Don Donohoe's cagers win, somebody undoubtedly will have to make room.

In other Ohio play, Akron's fourth-ranked small college outfit lost no lustre though they lost ding-dog game at Toledo 83-80 to the Rockets, an unbeaten major school.

Youngstown and Ashland each won its fourth in five outings, the Penguins 93-71 over San Francisco State and the Eagles 70-50 over Capital.

Marietta trimmed Wooster 61-53 in the Ohio Conference, previously winless Bluffton nipped Defiance 68-67 on Harry Osborn's last-second rebound goal in the Mid-Ohio, and Case Tech lost to Thiel 74-63 in the Presidents'.

Findlay topped Southampton, N.Y., 86-81 in a first round game of the Quantic Marines Holiday Tournament; Wilmington edged Centre 86-84 on Linn Oring's 39 points and Terry Moon's game-winning pair of free throws; Mount Union bowed to California (Pa.) 83-74, and Walsh couldn't handle Slippery Rock, bowing 102-84.

Cincinnati was breathing easy against the Deacons at Winston-Salem, N.C., with a 57-48 lead and four minutes to go, but two minutes later found the margin down to 57-56. Mike Rolf's layup proved decisive then, for Paul Brinkley scored for Wake Forest before the Deacons' Newton Scott missed a 35-foot desperation shot at the finish.

Browns To Test Cards' Defense

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The staunch defensive unit that has carried St. Louis' flickering title hopes on its broad shoulders for six weeks in the National Football League will be battling for half a loaf Saturday.

Not only must the Cardinal defenders handle Cleveland in their survival test, but the New York Giants' defense — most maligned in NFL history — must turn back Dallas' potent attack Sunday if St. Louis is to sidestep elimination in the Eastern Conference stretch race.

The Cowboys, leading the East by a full game going into the final weekend of the season, can lock up their first division championship if second-place St. Louis doesn't get past the Browns. Even if the Cards win their game Saturday, Dallas will need only a tie at New York Sunday to finish on top.

Stacked against the St. Louis defense, which has kept the Cards alive since quarterback Charley Johnson's knee caved in at New York on Nov. 6, will be Cleveland's twin touchdown threats, quarterback Frank Ryan and hard-running Leroy Kelly.

Ryan has passed for 25 touchdowns and Kelly has run for 15, both tops in the league. Kelly also leads the NFL in rushing yardage.

The Browns, ousted from the Eastern race by Philadelphia last Sunday, have nothing to lose. A victory over St. Louis, however, would shoot them into the NFL Playoff Bowl as well as eliminating the Cardinals, providing also Washington defeats or ties Philadelphia.

Regardless of the outcome at St. Louis Saturday, the Cowboys figure to score often enough at New York to earn the host spot in the NFL title game against Green Bay's Western Conference kings Jan. 1. The Giants, whose 1-11-1 record is their worst ever, have yielded a record 484 points, including 55 to Dallas in their earlier meeting.

The Washington Redskins, who stalled Dallas 34-31 last week, entertain Philadelphia in their season finale Sunday while Minnesota visits Chicago, Green Bay is at Los Angeles, Baltimore at San Francisco and Pittsburgh at Atlanta.

Terry Nofsinger, who has been filling in for Johnson at quarterback, and Rookie of the Year Johnny Roland are St. Louis' offensive guns.

Safetyman Larry Wilson, who tops the NFL with nine interceptions, keys the St. Louis defense. Cleveland's Ross Fichtner and Mike Howell, with eight pass thefts apiece, could make trouble for Nofsinger.

Don Meredith, injured in Dallas' loss to the Redskins, is set to direct the Cowboys' high-powered offense against New York — if they need him. He fired five TD passes in the 55-7 rout over the Giants at Dallas.

Torres, Tiger Meet Tonight In Light Heavy Title Battle

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Tiger, who showed signs of old age in his last fight eight months ago against a welterweight, moves into more dangerous territory tonight when he takes on Jose Torres in a light heavyweight title fight.

The 30-year-old Torres, making a record-tying fourth defense of his 175-pound crown this year, is a 12-5 favorite over the 37-year-old, former two-time Nigeria, in the 15 rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The bout will be telecast nationally by Madison Square Garden-RKO General Sports Presentations but New York will be blacked out of the telecast. Starting time is 10 p.m., EST.

Torres' predictions of a knockout victory over a steel-chinned foe who never has been kayoed has spurred interest in the match.

In his last fight on April 23, the 180-pound Nigerian was floored for the first time in his 14-year pro career and lost the decision and middleweight title to the 150½-pound Emile Griffith, then the welterweight champion.

Tonight he will be conceding weight, height, reach and age to the bodybombling New Yorker.

Torres figures to outweigh him from seven to 11 pounds, 174 or 175 to 164 to 168.

"It doesn't matter," said Tiger. "I have had trouble making 160 pounds for a few years. I feel stronger and I know I will punch harder."

If Tiger upsets Torres, he'll become the second middleweight champion to also capture the light heavyweight crown. Bob Fitzsimmons completed that feat 63 years ago. Torres' four light heavy defenses in a year equals the record set by Maxie Rosenbloom in 1933.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union's announced 8 per cent increase in defense spending for 1967 has caused little surprise in official Washington. One authority noted that Soviet military spending tends to rise or fall in relations to ups and downs in U.S. defense outlays.

Under pressure of the Vietnam war, the U.S. defense budget for fiscal 1966-67 is climbing by about one-quarter to an estimated $67 billion or $68 billion.

Soviet Finance Minister Vasily F. Garbuzov accused U.S. "criminal aggression in Vietnam" of aggravating the international situation as he told the Soviet Union's 1967 budget would include $16.1 billion for defense, compared with $15 billion in 1966.

American experts figure actual Soviet arms expenditures are far higher than these figures but declined to give an estimate.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's acquisition of a new antisubmarine warfare plane, first authorized three years ago, may be delayed until 1974.

This was disclosed Thursday by Pentagon sources who said the Defense Department has ordered the Navy to take a further look at the billion-dollar program.

The Navy specifically wanted Defense Department permission to move next year from the current phase of planning known as concept formulation to contract definition, the step just before actual procurement.

Some Navy officials are unhappy over the decision. One officer pointed out the mainstay of the present antisubmarine program is a plane designed 20 years ago.

The airplanes, equipped with sophisticated electronics gear, are used to detect enemy submarines under water.

Nicholas School Sets Christmas Program

The Annual Christmas program at Nicholas Drive School will be held 7 p. m. Monday at the school.

Grades one through six will participate in the program. The sixth grade will present a play with the music under the direction of Mr. Paul Dunkle.

All parents are invited to attend.

have the tribute spoken by David Sarnoff, board chairman of NBC's parent Radio Corporation of America or "someone of equal stature."

Danny Thomas, it was officially confirmed Thursday, will return to weekly television, with an hour show next season.

Thomas quit his long-playing situation comedy three years ago when it was in the top 10. He can fill the new program as he chooses with dramatic shows, musicals, comedy or whatever.

During the past two seasons his variety specials have pleased the public.

Kennedy Book Controversy Seems To Be Rather Obscure

NEW YORK (AP) — A highly placed official in President John F. Kennedy's administration described today a secret conference which — inadvertently — may have led to Mrs. Kennedy's legal action to block publication of the book about the assassination of her husband.

"The question of a lawsuit was put down as a last resort," the former official said. "It was only mentioned."

He said he is sure that the publishers of the book learned of the sense of the meeting. And he said he believes they therefore concluded that they could resist further requests by Mrs. Kennedy for revisions or deletions in the manuscript of William Manchester's book, "Death of a President."

When efforts to compromise failed, he said, Mrs. Kennedy brought the suit. Her attorneys will charge breach of contract, arguing that the Kennedys have not approved the manuscript of the book, as agreed upon in a "memorandum of understanding," signed by Manchester and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Further, Mrs. Kennedy objects to certain passages in the manuscript describing her emotions and actions in the aftermath of the tragedy in Dallas, one of her friends said.

The former official gave this version of the conference: It was held last October in Sen. Kennedy's New York City apartment. It lasted five hours. Mrs. Kennedy did not attend. Sen. Kennedy was present "only a short time."

The meeting was called "because things had reached a difficult state with respect to certain parts of the book. The purpose was to work out compromises on them."

The group included Richard Goodwin, Theodore Sorensen, Pierre Salinger, Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., Burke Marshall, James Greenfield, John Douglas and John Siegenthaler, editor of The Nashville Tennessean.

Except for Siegenthaler, all those present had held important positions in Kennedy's administration. Salinger, former White House press secretary, and Greenfield, former assistant secretary of state, considered the meeting of such importance that they flew to New York from California to attend.

A few of those at the conference had read the whole book. Others had read the parts of it which had come into dispute. "Some of it was read in the meeting."

The ex-official described the book as "beautifully written," adding, "There's a headline in every page."

"Also, the book is a rather unfortunate picture of President Johnson."

Nonetheless, he said, the sense of the meeting was to try to work out compromises on the disputed passages and not to take the case to court.

"Until a couple of weeks ago," he said, "I had the impression that things were getting along pretty well on that. They must have run into a real snag."

He said he felt certain the publishers — Look magazine and Harper & Row book publishers — got wind of the meeting and felt a lawsuit was unlikely. "I'm sure somebody called and told them about it," he said. He did not say who he thought might have leaked the information.

Thursday, an informant who is in the thick of the fight said he had heard indications that Sen. Kennedy may wish to disassociate himself with his sister-in-law's action.

How Things Appear

When You Are Six

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Miss Kathleen Thews said her kindergarten class at Washington Elementary School was singing "Tannenbaum, O Tannenbaum" Thursday while rehearsing for a Christmas play but a 6-year-old boy had his own version which he delivered lustily: "Atomic Bomb, O Atomic Bomb."

"And he really thought he was right," Miss Thews said.

"Manchester prepared a complete statement telling absolutely everything in complete detail," the source said. "He intends to issue it today. But the lawyers have told him not to, to hold it in reserve. They're getting strong indications that Kennedy wants to get out and doesn't think it (the suit) was a good idea, to begin with."

An aide to the senator, commenting on the report, said, "There is no conceivable conflict. He doesn't oppose the suit."

The complaint may be filed Saturday, or possibly today, Mrs. Kennedy's lawyer, Simon Rifkind, said.

Rifkind, a former federal judge, said the action is based primarily on the contention that the Kennedys have not approved the manuscript of the book as it stands. One clause in the "memorandum of understanding," says: "The completed manuscript shall be reviewed by Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the text shall not be published unless and until approved by them."

The question of breach-of-contract with respect to this paragraph may pivot on two communications from Sen. Kennedy.

A central figure in the pending action related this sequence of events with respect to the messages:

In late spring, when a number of revisions of Manchester's manuscript were requested, the author became "very distraught." The source said, "He wondered if the book ever would be published."

Manchester's representatives asked for assurances from Kennedy, and the senator sent a telegram saying the family would not stand in the way of publication. This, the publishers are expected to argue, constituted a release for the book.

But at the end of July or early August, Kennedy sent a second telegram, countering the first.

"Since final approval was not given," a lawyer said, "I think there's little doubt that, in a straight breach-of-contract basis, Mrs. Kennedy will win."

Rifkind said the complaint will ask for a temporary injunction against publication of the book and possibly monetary damages. "I don't know for sure," the attorney said. "I just haven't got that far yet."

Since Manchester's book relates the events immediately after the assassination, numerous versions of what happened on the flight back to Washington have become current.

Kenneth P. O'Donnell, appointments secretary to President Kennedy, clarified one. He was asked to comment on the report that he boarded the presidential plane with Mrs. Kennedy and the casket, that he ordered the pilot to take off, and that the then Vice President Johnson countermanded the order.

O'Donnell said: "That's true. 'I didn't know that he (Johnson) was on the plane. I was under the assumption that he had already left.'"

The vice presidential jet airplane, identical with the presidential jet, was parked at Love Field, Dallas.

O'Donnell continued, "We had no controversy. . . ."

Jack Valenti, former aide to Johnson, returned to Washington on Air Force 1 and was within sight and hearing of the President virtually all the time.

Valenti said: "I never saw anything frictionable, certainly nothing embarrassing. I just know that was a sad airplane."

Malcolm Kilduff, a White House aide under Kennedy, said previously that the 1960 campaign was rehearsed and that incidents took place on the plane, on which he was a passenger, that might prove embarrassing to both the Kennedys and Johnsons.

Kilduff said Thursday he would not disclose the embarrassing incidents. He said he turned down a five-figure offer from a national magazine that wanted his story.

He was asked if there was any acrimony between the Kennedys and the Johnsons over the conflicting orders for the plane to take off. Kilduff said the discussion did not become acrimonious and said this did not figure in his catalogue of embarrassments.

Trying To Direct Bedlam Of Army Christmas Leaves

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — They'll be traveling to Alaska and most intermediate points — these 13,000 GIs in the process of swapping the drab existence of an Army post for the warm, colorful atmosphere of home at Christmas time.

Uncle Sam is playing Santa Claus.

Homesick soldiers, in the first few weeks of Army life and for some, the first time away from home for any length of time, are getting Christmas leaves.

Fort Benning is experiencing one of the largest mass vacation operations ever attempted as the recruits begin Christmas leaves of 10 to 13 days.

The troops began leaving the post Monday by automobile, bus, air and rail. Key figure in the extensively planned travel arrangements was Lt. Col. Edward J. Kelly Jr., assistant chief of staff for supply and logistics.

He began mapping departure plans for the GIs in October. Representatives of bus lines, railroads and airlines conferred with Army officials and the wheels soon were in motion. Ticket agencies were set up on post, and each soldier selected his own mode of transportation.

Leaves average 12 days, and those furthest along in the eight-week basic training period go first and return first.

Buses will transport some of the recruits directly from the post to their home cities. Others are being taken to Atlanta airport, 125 miles away. Those going by train are being taken to the depot in nearby Columbus, Ga.

Families are coming by car to pick up many of the soldiers, and men who reside in the Ft. Benning area are voluntarily remaining on post for routine duties so others may leave.

Greatest number on Christmas leave to any state is 2,629 traveling to Ohio. There will be 1,681 going to Florida, 1,513 to Alabama and 1,686 remaining in Georgia.

One soldier is going by train to Alaska and back in 12 days. One goes to Canada and two to Guatemala.

"Can you imagine what would happen if we just blew a whistle and turned 'em loose?" Col. Kelly asked.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union's announced 8 percent increase in defense spending for 1967 has caused little surprise in official Washington. One authority noted that Soviet military spending tends to rise or fall in relations to U.S. and down in U.S. defense outlays.

Under pressure of the Vietnam war, the U.S. defense budget for fiscal 1966-67 is climbing by about one-quarter to an estimated $67 billion or $68 billion.

Soviet Finance Minister Vasily F. Garbuzov accused U.S. "criminal aggression in Vietnam" of aggravating the international situation as he told the Soviet Union's 1967 budget would include $16.1 billion for defense, compared with $15 billion in 1966.

American experts figure actual Soviet arms expenditures are far higher than these figures but declined to give an estimate.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's acquisition of a new antisubmarine warfare plane, first authorized three years ago, may be delayed until 1974.

This was disclosed Thursday by Pentagon sources who said the Defense Department has ordered the Navy to take a further look at the billion-dollar program.

The Navy specifically wanted Defense Department permission to move next year from the current phase of planning known as concept formulation to contract definition, the step just before actual procurement.

Some Navy officials are unhappy over the decision. One officer pointed out the mainstay of the present antisubmarine program is a plane designed 20 years ago.

The airplanes, equipped with sophisticated electronics gear, are used to detect enemy submarines under water.

Nicholas School Sets Christmas Program

The Annual Christmas program at Nicholas Drive School will be held 7 p. m. Monday at the school.

Grades one through six will participate in the program. The sixth grade will present a play with the music under the direction of Mr. Paul Dunkle.

All parents are invited to attend.

have the tribute spoken by David Sarnoff, board chairman of NBC's parent Radio Corporation of America or "someone of equal stature."

Danny Thomas, it was officially confirmed Thursday, will return to weekly television, with an hour show next season.

Thomas quit his long-playing situation comedy three years ago when it was in the top 10. He can fill the new program as he chooses with dramatic shows, musicals, comedy or whatever.

During the past two seasons his variety specials have pleased the public.

Kennedy Book Controversy Seems To Be Rather Obscure

NEW YORK (AP) — A highly placed official in President John F. Kennedy's administration described today a secret conference which — inadvertently — may have led to Mrs. Kennedy's legal action to block publication of the book about the assassination of her husband.

"The question of a lawsuit was put down as a last resort," the former official said. "It was only mentioned."

He said he is sure that the publishers of the book learned of the sense of the meeting. And he said he believes they therefore concluded that they could resist further requests by Mrs. Kennedy for revisions or deletions in the manuscript of William Manchester's book, "Death of a President."

When efforts to compromise failed, he said, Mrs. Kennedy brought the suit. Her attorneys will charge breach of contract, arguing that the Kennedys have not approved the manuscript of the book, as agreed upon in a "memorandum of understanding," signed by Manchester and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Further, Mrs. Kennedy objects to certain passages in the manuscript describing her emotions and actions in the aftermath of the tragedy in Dallas, one of her friends said.

The former official gave this version of the conference:

It was held last October in Sen. Kennedy's New York City apartment. It lasted five hours.

Mrs. Kennedy did not attend. Sen. Kennedy was present "only a short time."

The meeting was called "because things had reached a difficult state with respect to certain parts of the book. The purpose was to work out compromises on them."

The group included Richard Goodwin, Theodore Sorensen, Pierre Salinger, Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., Burke Marshall, James Greenfield, John Douglas and John Siegenthaler, editor of The Nashville Tennessean.

Except for Siegenthaler, all those present had held important positions in Kennedy's administration. Salinger, former White House press secretary, and Greenfield, former assistant secretary of state, considered the meeting of such importance that they flew to New York from California to attend.

A few of those at the conference had read the whole book. Others had read the parts of it which had come into dispute.

"Some of it was read in the meeting."

The ex-official described the book as "beautifully written," adding, "There's a headline in every page."

But, he continued, referring to Manchester's two interviews with Mrs. Kennedy, "It's clear that Manchester took stuff from the tape recorder when Mrs. Kennedy was not in control of her emotions.

"Also, the book is a rather unfortunate picture of President Johnson."

Nonetheless, he said, the sense of the meeting was to try to work out compromises on the disputed passages and not to take the case to court.

"Until a couple of weeks ago," he said, "I had the impression that things were getting along pretty well on that. They must have run into a real snag."

He said he felt certain the publishers — Look magazine and Harper & Row book publishers — got wind of the meeting and felt a lawsuit was unlikely. "I'm sure somebody called and told them about it," he said. He did not say who he thought might have leaked the information.

Thursday, an informant who is in the thick of the fight said he had heard indications that Sen. Kennedy may wish to disassociate himself with his sister-in-law's action.

How Things Appear When You Are Six

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Miss Kathleen Thews said her kindergarten class at Washington Elementary School was singing "Tannenbaum, O Tannenbaum" Thursday while rehearsing for a Christmas play

but a 6-year-old boy had his own version which he delivered lustily: "Atomic Bomb, O Atomic Bomb."

"And he really thought he was right," Miss Thews said.

"Manchester prepared a complete statement telling absolutely everything in complete detail," the source said. "He intends to issue it today. But the lawyers have told him not to, to hold it in reserve. They're getting strong indications that Kennedy wants to get out and doesn't think it (the suit) was a good idea, to begin with."

An aide to the senator, commenting on the report, said, "There is no conceivable conflict. He doesn't oppose the suit."

The complaint may be filed Saturday, or possibly today, Mrs. Kennedy's lawyer, Simon Rifkind, said.

Rifkind, a former federal judge, said the action is based primarily on the contention that the Kennedys have not approved the manuscript of the book as it stands. One clause in the "memorandum of understanding," says: "The completed manuscript shall be reviewed by Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the text shall not be published unless and until approved by them."

The question of breach-of-contract with respect to this paragraph may pivot on two communications from Sen. Kennedy.

A central figure in the pending action related this sequence of events with respect to the messages:

In late spring, when a number of revisions of Manchester's manuscript were requested, the author became "very distraught." The source said, "He wondered if the book ever would be published."

Manchester's representatives asked for assurances from Kennedy, and the senator sent a telegram saying the family would not stand in the way of publication. This, the publishers are expected to argue, constituted a release for the book.

But at the end of July or early August, Kennedy sent a second telegram, countering the first.

"Since final approval was not given," a lawyer said, "I think there's little doubt that, in a straight breach-of-contract basis, Mrs. Kennedy will win."

Rifkind said the complaint will ask for a temporary injunction against publication of the book and possibly monetary damages. "I don't know for sure," the attorney said. "I just haven't got that far yet."

Since Manchester's book relates the events immediately after the assassination, numerous versions of what happened on the flight back to Washington have become current.

Kenneth P. O'Donnell, appointments secretary to President Kennedy, clarified one. He was asked to comment on the report that he boarded the presidential plane with Mrs. Kennedy and the casket, that he ordered the pilot to take off, and that the then Vice President Johnson countermanded the order.

O'Donnell said: "That's true. I didn't know that he (Johnson) was on the plane. I was under the assumption that he had already left."

The vice presidential jet airplane, identical with the presidential jet, was parked at Love Field, Dallas.

O'Donnell continued, "We had no controversy. . . ."

Jack Valenti, former aide to Johnson, returned to Washington on Air Force 1 and was within sight and hearing of the President virtually all the time.

Valenti said: "I never saw anything frictionable, certainly nothing embarrassing. I just know that was a sad airplane."

Malcolm Kilduff, a White House aide under Kennedy, said previously that the 1960 campaign was reshaped and that incidents took place on the plane, on which he was a passenger, that might prove embarrassing to both the Kennedys and Johnsons.

Kilduff said Thursday he would not disclose the embarrassing incidents. He said he turned down a five-figure offer from a national magazine that wanted his story.

He was asked if there was any acrimony between the Kennedys and the Johnsons over the conflicting orders for the plane to take off. Kilduff said the discussion did not become acrimonious and said this did not figure in his catalogue of embarrassments.

Trying To Direct Bedlam Of Army Christmas Leaves

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — They'll be traveling to Alaska and most intermediate points — these 13,000 GIs in the process of swapping the drab existence of an Army post for the warm, colorful atmosphere of home at Christmas time.

Uncle Sam is playing Santa Claus.

Homesick soldiers, in the first few weeks of Army life and for some, the first time away from home for any length of time, are getting Christmas leaves.

Fort Benning is experiencing one of the largest mass vacation operations ever attempted as the recruits begin Christmas leaves of 10 to 13 days.

The troops began leaving the post Monday by automobile, bus, air and rail. Key figure in the extensively planned travel arrangements was Lt. Col. Edward J. Kelly Jr., assistant chief of staff for supply and logistics.

He began mapping departure plans for the GIs in October. Representatives of bus lines, railroads and airlines conferred with Army officials and the wheels soon were in motion.

Ticket agencies were set up on post, and each soldier selected his own mode of transportation. Leaves average 12 days, and those furthest along in the eight-week basic training period go first and return first.

Buses will transport some of the recruits directly from the post to their home cities. Others are being taken to Atlanta airport, 125 miles away. Those going by train are being taken to the depot in nearby Columbus, Ga.

Families are coming by car to pick up many of the soldiers, and men who reside in the Ft. Benning area are voluntarily remaining on post for routine duties so others may leave.

Greatest number on Christmas leave to any state is 2,629 traveling to Ohio. There will be 1,681 going to Florida, 1,513 to Alabama and 1,686 remaining in Georgia.

One soldier is going by train to Alaska and back in 12 days. One goes to Canada and two to Guatemala.

"Can you imagine what would happen if we just blew a whistle and turned 'em loose?" Col. Kelly asked.
